PRESIDENT OFFERS NEW R. R. STRIKE PROPOSAL

Wilson Presents Agreement in an Effort to Avert Final Break Between Railroad Executives and Big Four Brotherhoods

NATION'S HEAD STANDS FIRM FOR 8-HOUR DAY

No Action Is Expected to Be Taken on Reply of Roads, While Possibility Exists for Radical Changes in Terms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Labor day, Monday, September 4, is the date fixed for the strike in the tentative orders prepared for the railroad brotherhoods and carried home by the members of the committee of 640 who left Washington yesterday.

It was learned today that the brotherhood leaders' negotiations here must end one way or the other before Labor day and they selected the holiday with a view to having two million or more workers in all lines of labor marching in great demonstrations in favor of the strikers' cause.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Wilson today presented a new proposal to the railroads of the country by which he hoped to avert the threatened final break between the roads and the railroad brotherhoods and the inevitable industrial crisis that would follow.

It was this new plan of the President, it became known this afternoon, that resulted in deferring the conference with the railroad presidents scheduled for 10 o'clock at the White House. It was likely to defer this conference again beyond the hour of 2:30, the new time set, it was indicated.

It has become apparent the President has become convinced that the final terms of the railway heads will be considered there was a possibility of obtaining radical changes in the terms.

WILSON PROPOSAL.
President Wilson's new plan for bringing the deadlock between the railroads and their employees as discussed in conferences today was as follows:

An eight-hour law for railroads, to become effective at a date far enough in the future to give the railroads opportunity to prepare for it.

A law patterned after the Canadian act which creates a commission of investigation and prevents lockouts or strike while an industrial dispute is being investigated.

This plan was discussed by the President with his party leaders in Congress as the basis for the next step after the railroad managers have formally announced their refusal to accept the plan of settlement the President previously proposed. They were expected to do this this afternoon at the White House conference. Meanwhile the Congressional leaders gave up hope of adjournment this week and settled down to stay here as long as necessary to provide legislation to meet the strike situation.

Senator Newlands and Commissioner Chamberlain of the Federal Mediation Board conferred today with Acting Attorney General Todd about the legislative program, but all denied that any legal measures for preventing a strike had been discussed. While the President finally given up hope of bringing about an agreement through direct negotiations, he is going forward with his preparations for taking his plan for legislation before Congress.

RAILROAD OBJECTIONS.
Up to the present the railroad executives have based their objections to the President's plan on the ground the entire controversy should be submitted to arbitration.

It was understood today that many proposals of different form have been presented to the railroad executives through the White House, but they have all been met with the statement that the railroads stood for arbitrating the whole controversy.

If all the negotiations fail, and the President goes before Congress probably tomorrow or Wednesday, it is said he will reveal the details of all

STORM RACE IS FATAL DEATH RIDES IN CAR

GENEVIEWE SCHNARR, injured in automobile accident in which Mrs. Wanda Bice lost her life.

Woman Killed When Auto Plunges Off Dublin Road; 3 Companions Hurt

One woman is dead and another fatally injured, one man is near death at the county infirmary, and the driver of the automobile they were riding in is at a hospital in Hayward, the result of an accident last night on the Dublin boulevard, when, racing toward Oakland in an effort to reach shelter from last night's thunderstorm, the party was dashed into a telegraph pole.

The dead: Mrs. Wanda Bice, Madison Park apartments, Oakland.

The injured: Leonard Kivett, 4150 Kanning street, a fireman; possible basal fracture of skull.

Miss Genevieve Schnarr, 2611 Alameda avenue; bruised and cut in crash.

Lester Kivett, driver of the car; bruises, shock and injured knee.

The two Kivett brothers had taken the girls for a ride and were returning to Oakland when the storm broke. Panicked, the women begged Lester Kivett, who was at the wheel, to race the storm to Oakland and shelter. Kivett put on speed.

Confused by the lightning and nervous because of the crashes of thunder that reverberated among the hills, Kivett miscalculated a curve, striking the telegraph pole at full speed. The automobile was thrown to one side and its occupants hurled to the road. The pole was snapped like a straw.

Frank T. Herbert of San Francisco, following in an auto a short distance behind, picked up the injured party and hurried to the county infirmary, where Dr. C. A. Wills rendered first aid. An investigation of the accident is being made.

Irish Problems to Be Recess Studies

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Strong efforts are to be made during the parliamentary recess for resumption of negotiations for settlement of the Irish question, according to reports in Irish political circles. It is understood both the Unionists and Nationalist leaders are inclined to regard these efforts sympathetically.

Two Declarations Impress Berlin

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Italy's declaration of war against Germany and the declaration of war by Rumania against Austria-Hungary have caused a most profound impression in the German capital, says a despatch from Berlin by way of The Hague to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Berlin newspapers, the despatch adds, express themselves bitterly against Gottlieb von Jagow, the German foreign minister, and Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the under secretary for foreign affairs, these statesmen being considered by the journals to be partly responsible for what is claimed to be Germany's diplomatic feat.

Drive Toward Persia Stemmed by Russians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The Turkish drive towards Persia, aimed apparently to outflank the Russian armies operating in Armenia, is reported in despatches received here today to have been held up by Woe by heavy Russian reinforcements. The foreign legations in Teheran, though still disturbed, have not yet fled the city.

This report, taken in conjunction with the recent Russian successes at Bitlis and Mush, is interpreted as removing danger either of a Turkish outflanking movement against Russia or of an invasion of Persia.

MAYOR MAY SEEK RULE OVER POLICE

Tax Rate of $1.89 on Each $100 of Assessed Value Fixed by Council Will Necessitate $500,600 Elsewhere

Davie Sees in Act of Majority Plan to Obtain Revenue by "Raising Lid" and Making Raids for Collection Box

Immediately after three members of the City Council had today adopted an ordinance fixing this year's tax rate at $1.89 on the $100 property valuation, Mayor John L. Davie announced that he had engaged attorneys who are now preparing an initiative ordinance to amend section 37 of the charter, transferring the police force of the city from the department of public health and safety, presided over by Dr. F. F. Jackson, to his own department, that of public affairs.

The announcement came after Commissioner W. H. Edwards and Mayor Davie had voted against the adoption of the tax ordinance, the mayor inferring that he believed the new budget presented by the majority commissioners would necessitate the toleration of an "open town" that the necessary revenue might be made up through increased arrests of law violators. This, the mayor intimated, would be necessary that money might be raised in addition to the revenue from the tax rate as it was fixed.

The rate fixed by the budget ordinance made up by Commissioners H. S. Anderson, W. J. Bacus and Jackson is something like two and one-half cents lower than that recommended by Edwards in his tentative budget to the council. In addition, increases of appropriations to the three commissioners and the park department to the amount of $107,806. At the same time, however, cuts were made in the Edwards estimates amounting to $61,478. The re-made budget also allows for the collection of an increase of $20,000 in police court revenues during the present fiscal year.

INCREASE COURT FINES.
The tax ordinance will provide $3,250,216.40 as the estimated expenditure of the city during the present fiscal year. Edwards' estimate was $3,187,706.75, a difference of $62,509.65. Of this amount, $2,672,333.96 is to be raised by taxation and $530,600 is to be raised through sources of revenue other than taxation, such as licenses and police court fines and forfeitures.

In raising Edwards' estimates of money to be collected in this manner, the three commissioners allowed for an increase of $20,000 in police court revenues during the present fiscal year.

"How are there to be so many more arrests and fines this year than there were last year?" the mayor asked. "Is the city growing worse, morally, or is it about to grow worse, that more revenue may be taken in?"

"Oh, we'll get the money," Anderson answered. "We have the assurance of Commissioner Jackson that all violators of the laws will be arrested during this year," he added later.

"The more money we have passed into the hands of law violators who were not arrested and fined last year, who will be taken care of this year. This will go to make up the additional

HOME OF RECLUSE TO BE SEARCHED FOR HIDDEN GOLD

Appraisers Will Hunt Eccentric Millionaire's Domicile for Trace of Fortune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Seeking a hidden hoard of gold, appraisers will search the premises of Edward W. Morrison, the eccentric millionaire whose vast fortune is the subject of investigation by the Federal Court. Attorneys for the receivers will ask for a formal court order tomorrow, directing a search for the missing gold.

The garden of the old man's home will be spaded by the seekers after buried treasure and the walls of the ramshackle home will be probed. That vast sums of money have passed into Morrison's hands in recent years is asserted by attorneys. It is claimed that while the aged millionaire spent and gave away his money with a reckless hand, he had a passion for hoarding gold coins and would never part with one.

Tomorrow Attorney J. R. Ward, who holds deeds to $2,000,000 worth of Morrison's property, will be asked to produce his books and records in the Federal Court.

Freshman Girl at U. C. Gets License

BERKELEY, Aug. 28.—Miss Berenice B. Russell, a freshman student at the University of California, and Dean D. Waynick, a teaching fellow of soil chemistry at the University, surprised their friends by taking out a marriage license in Oakland today. Both have many friends in the east bay cities. Waynick is a graduate of the University of Washington.

Tie-Up of Chicago Freight Threatened

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A tie-up of freight shipments out of Chicago was threatened today by a strike of freight handlers at the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad freight depot. More than 500 men have struck, according to union officials. Railroad officials say only 100 have gone out.

Bandits Rob Standard Oil Machine of $4000

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 28.—Automobile bandits this afternoon held up and robbed the driver of a Standard Oil Company collection car on a lonely road near Dearborn, a suburb. They are reported to have obtained more than $4000.

John Isbell, driver of the car, was taken from his machine, bound, gagged and left by the roadside. His muffled cries attracted help a few minutes later. Meanwhile the bandits escaped.

Richard Genung Lost in Desert

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—Richard H. Genung of 2046 Seventh avenue, Oakland, has been missing since August 6, when he left Mohawk, a small town in Arizona, in search of a mining claim, and is believed to have been lost on the Arizona desert, according to information received here today.

C. E. Genung, a brother living at Pomona, said friends had given up their search for his brother.

Report Sinking of Hellenic Steamship

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Greek steamship Lenxos, 1569 tons, has been sunk, according to a despatch from Valencia, Spain, to Lloyd's shipping agency. The crew was saved.

Rumania Joins Allies; Strikes At Teuton Foe

Germany Loses in One of Greatest Diplomatic Contests of Big War

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Germany handed passports to the Rumanian minister this afternoon and issued a declaration of war against Rumania, according to Berlin despatches tonight.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Rumania has joined the allies with her well-trained army of 600,000 men. One official statement from Berlin this afternoon announced that Rumania declared war on Austria last night. The French foreign office announced that Rumania has issued a declaration of war against the central powers.

Germany will dismiss the Rumanian minister to Berlin today, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from The Hague. There is every indication that Germany will follow Rumania's action with a declaration of war before many hours.

Rumania's decision was reached at a meeting of the crown council summoned by King Ferdinand last night. It came at the end of two years of anxious waiting in which the Rumanian diplomats watched with the keenest interest the military fortunes of the allies.

Greek King Denounced

The Rumanian declaration is expected to signal Greece's early entrance into the war on the side of the allies. Pro-ally enthusiasm, fanned to fever heat by the Bulgarian invasion of Northern Greece, broke out in a series of great meetings in Athens Sunday. King Constantine was denounced for failing to lend support to the allies and was urged to prepare the army for war.

The Rumanian general staff probably will send every available man in the invasion of Hungary in an effort to conquer the rich province of Transylvania, long coveted by the Rumanians. At the same time a strong force will be maintained along the Southern Rumanian frontier to guard against attack by the Bulgarians.

Rumania's decision is expected to be followed shortly by the opening of a great allied offensive in the Balkans that will aim to squeeze the Bulgars between two opposing forces, closing the pathway the Germans cut through Serbia to Constantinople.

Great Diplomatic Achievement

The Rumanian entrance into the war was the greatest diplomatic achievement for the allies since the European struggle began. Despatches from The Hague today declared that Berlin received the news calmly, though the German press blames Foreign Secretary von Jagow and Under Foreign Secretary Zimmerman for Germany's diplomatic defeat.

The Berlin military authorities stationed a guard about the Rumanian legation, but there were no hostile demonstrations. A Berlin crowd vented its wrath against Italy for declaring war against Germany yesterday by stoning the Italian embassy until police reserves arrived. Thus far no serious trouble has occurred.

Old Agreement Suspected

Rumania entered the war at almost the same hour that Italy declared war on Germany. The two events had close connection, it is believed here, since Rumania and Italy had acted in concert in other Balkan matters and were understood to have agreed more than a year ago to join the allies at the same time.

News of the allied diplomatic victory at Bucharest was hailed with the greatest enthusiasm in London. Everywhere the view was taken that Rumania's entrance into the war means the speedy elimination of both Austria and Bulgaria from the conflict.

Squeezed between the victorious Russian and Italian armies, the Austrians now find themselves forced to defend their eastern border from attack at a moment when they lack men for the Russian and Italian fronts. Allied military experts are confident that Germany will be unable to send any reinforcements to the aid of the hard-pressed Austrians without inviting disaster on both the Russian and Anglo-French fronts.

Some critics see as a result of Rumania's action the cutting off

LIGHTNING BOLT HITS POWDERMILL; $10,000 DAMAGE

HERCULES WORKS VISITED BY EXPLOSION DURING NIGHT'S STORM.

PINOLE, Aug. 28.—Struck by a bolt of lightning the Cornish black powder plant of the Hercules Powder Works is today in ruins following a fire and explosion that completely wrecked the structure, the damage being estimated at $10,000. The fire occurred shortly after midnight.

The heavy rains prevented the flames spreading to other parts of the plant. A flash of lightning, striking a light wire, early this morning, burned out a power generator at the plant earlier in the night, and tied up lighting service in the neighborhood for several hours.

Throughout the county the effects of the electrical storm were seen. No workmen were in the powder plant at the time of the explosion. The powder factory officials are today investigating to see if possible where the fire started.

Somme Battle LULLS; ALLIES REPORT ADVANCE

PARIS CLAIMS REPULSE OF KAISER'S ATTACKS AGAINST FLEURY VILLAGE.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—No large actions on the Somme front are reported in today's official announcement which says: In spite of indifferent weather some progress has been made east of Delville Wood and in minor successful enterprises near Mouquet Farm.

Last night there was much shelling against parts of our line, especially in Delville Wood, and on our trenches north of Pozières. Our artillery also was active.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Several German attacks against the village of Fleury, on the northeastern front of Verdun, were repulsed in last night's fighting, it was officially announced today. No important operations occurred elsewhere on the western front.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—British and French troops made repeated attacks on the German positions last night in the region of the river Somme on the western front, says the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff. The attacks failed, the statement says, partly after hand-to-hand fighting and partly on account of German counter attacks.

ITALY NOW SWORN FOE OF GERMANY

Formal Declaration of War Is Announced from Rome as Result of Conditions That Made Situation Intolerable

Action Ends One of Strangest Phases of European Strife, as Both Nations Virtually Have Been in Fighting Status

ROME, Aug. 28.—Italy is today at war with Germany. The declaration of hostilities was made by Italy. Following information that it had reached the Imperial German government through Switzerland, announcement of the government's action was made here late yesterday.

The intolerable situation created by the fact that Italy was at war with Germany's ally and the fact that Germany loaned all possible support to that ally, Austria-Hungary, against Italy and its interests led the government to its decision. That decision was made public in the following announcement:

"The Italian government declares in the name of the king, that Italy considers herself to be in a state of war with Germany as from August 28 and begs the Swiss government to convey this information to the Imperial German government."

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Italy's declaration of war on Germany brings to an end one of the strangest situations recorded in the history of nations. Though thrown into the maelstrom of a war against a world in arms by her Hapsburg ally, Germany has not been officially at war with Italy until that country now has made the long expected move. No aim in the diplomatic field has been more ardently pursued by the Kaiser since the beginning of the war than to avert an open break with his former ally.

Italy's action does not come as a surprise. It has been predicted, promised, threatened and even officially announced as often as a Rumanian intervention on the allies' side, and this, too, is now expected to become an accomplished fact before many more days have passed.

LONG FORESHADOWED. The course of the Italo-German relations have taken since August 1, 1914, and yesterday's inevitable outcome were marked and foreshadowed by the following outstanding events:

At the beginning of the war Italy renounced the Triple Alliance and declared for a policy of neutrality. On May 23 of the same year she declared war on Austria-Hungary, yielding to overwhelming pressure of public sentiment and rejecting sweeping territorial offers from her former ally. On August 23, 1915, she followed this up with a declaration of war against Turkey, Germany's pet protégé. On February 16 last the Italian government requisitioned thirty-four of the thirty-seven German steamships interned in Italian ports, and the climax came on the third day of the present month when Italy gave notice to Germany of the termination of the Italo-German commercial treaty of 1891, which would have expired at the end of 1917.

BALKANS AT BOTTOM. Curiously enough, the immediate cause of Italy's declaration of open hostilities against Germany is the development of affairs in the same "sphere of interest" that was chiefly responsible for the rupture of the Triple Alliance and Italy's refusal to fight on the side of the Teutonic powers, namely the Balkans. In August, 1914, she gave as one of her reasons the fact that Austria's action against Serbia tended to upset the status she wished to see maintained: "The Balkans for the Balkan peoples." Today she draws the sword on Germany principally to be able to take an active part in the Macedonian campaign, by which the entente powers propose to reconquer Serbia.

Once before the allies had appealed to Italy to take a hand in the Balkans. At that time, however, Italy refused. It was in October of last year, when England and France

RUMANIA ADDS 600,000 MEN TO ALLY ARMS

Rumania's entrance into the war places a thoroughly drilled and equipped army of nearly 600,000 men alongside the allies.

Of the actual fighting value of the modern Rumanian army nothing definite can be told, as it has never been put to the test.

During two recent conflicts in the Balkans, Rumania of all the Balkan states alone kept out of the struggle.

The organization and equipment of the Rumanian army has been praised by many experts. Rumania's military service is obligatory on all able-bodied men between 21 and 46 years old.

During the first seven years of military service the men belong to the active army. They then pass to the reserves, where they serve for twelve years, finally passing into the militia for the remainder of their term of service until they are 46 years old. The militia is supposed to be liable for service only in maintaining the internal order of the country and in guarding the railroads during war times.

This organization gives Rumania a total of 250,000 first-line troops and about 400,000 reserves. The regular standing army consists of 5000 officers, 1000 military students, 100,000 troops, 25,000 horses, 600 cannon and 200 machine guns.

sought to make good their promise to save Serbia from being overrun by the combined Teuton and Bulgarian armies. Italy's answer was that her forces were tied up in the Trentino and in Albania, and that she trusted the allies would "rectify their own mistakes."

ONE CAUSE OF CHANGE. Since then the entente powers have thrown the Teutonic empires on the defensive on all fronts and in this Italy took an active part by her vigorous offensive on the Isonzo. The military situation has changed radically and the fact that it is not nearly so favorable for Germany as it was last fall is believed to be the explanation for Italy's latest move.

As was the case before Italy declared war on Austria, the strongest rumors and reports attended the continuance of "official peace" between Italy and Germany. Prior to May, 1915, the story was generally believed that King Victor Emmanuel had given Emperor Francis Joseph his royal word never to fight the dual monarchy. He would sooner abdicate, it was said, than break his word. The prediction of a "republic of Italy" did not come true, however. When Italy, in the face of the tremendous pressure on the part of the entente powers, moral and otherwise, refused to break with Germany, the theory became general that a secret treaty existed between the two nations.

DELAY EXPLAINED. The fact that open war has not come sooner between the two former allies is attributed chiefly to the diplomatic activities of Prince Bernhard von Buelow, former Imperial German chancellor, who, through his marriage with an Italian noblewoman and his many devoted friends at King Victor Emmanuel's court, had probably more influence at Rome than any other European statesman. It was said, than break his word. The prediction of a "republic of Italy" did not come true, however. When Italy, in the face of the tremendous pressure on the part of the entente powers, moral and otherwise, refused to break with Germany, the theory became general that a secret treaty existed between the two nations.

The traditional friendship between the Italian and French governments of Bulgaria and Turkey from communication with their Austro-German allies and their surrender under economic and military pressure before the end of the present year.

Though the allied censorship on Balkan news has been very strict for several weeks, wireless advices from Berlin indicated uneasiness in the German capital over the progress of the diplomatic battle being waged at Bucharest. It was plain that Germany feared Rumania would decide to join the allies after Russia had swept through the Austrian crown land of Bukovina and while the allies were preparing for a great offensive in the Balkans.

The immediate effect of the Rumanian declaration in all probability will be to cause the early withdrawal of the Bulgarian forces that invaded Greece, to protect the Bulgarian northern frontier against a Rumanian invasion. The Rumanians presumably will form a junction with the Russians operating in Bukovina and throw an army across the Hungarian frontier into Transylvania, long coveted by the Rumanians.

Rumania's chief reason for entering the war is the hope of annexing to her present territory the two Austrian provinces of Transylvania and Bukovina. They are inhabited largely by Rumanians. While all the other Balkan states are interested in securing land in the Balkan peninsula, Rumania's aspirations lie to the north.

Still another factor separates Rumania from the other Balkan states, that of race. The Rumanian prides himself on being of Latin origin and traces his stock back to one of the colonies sent by Emperor Trajan.

In the southern half of Bukovina, the Austrian crown land, the Rumanians are the dominant race. The mass of the people of eastern Transylvania, a part of Hungary, is Rumanian by race and language. It is said 4,000,000 Rumanians live in Transylvania.

Rumania has been credited with a long-cherished ambition to annex these provinces and at the same time "liberate" the Rumanians now under Austrian domination. Recently Germany had offered Rumania as a reward if she would unite with the entente.

Rumania also covets Bessarabia, the extreme southwestern province of Russia, on the Black sea, which was taken from her by the Berlin treaty of 1878. Reports have stated that Russia also has consented to restore Bessarabia as a prize, with a population of 2,000,000, mostly Rumanians, and an area of 20,000 square miles. This, with Transylvania, would give Rumania a total population approaching 13,000,000, and should all her aspirations be satisfied, a territory as great in area as that of England, Scotland and Wales.

LONG BORDER LINE.

Rumania has a border line as long as the whole Russian empire, and from on which to choose her point of military attack. On what direction her first blow might be aimed is only indicated by her desire to pour her troops through the passes of the Transylvanian Alps and the Carpathians into Transylvania. On the other hand, Austria has been accumulating military forces at Orzova, prepared to attempt to force the "iron gates" where the Danube river touches the western Rumanian border. Bulgaria is said to have stationed 100,000 or more troops along the southern bank of the Danube to protect her northern frontier from Rumanian invasion.

Apprehension in Germany that Rumania intends to permit a Russian army to march through her territory to attack the Bulgarians has been apparent for some time. Military authorities in Budapest assert that the chief factor for the consideration of the central powers is not the half million of men of the Rumanian army but the opportunity for a new Russian invasion of Hungary. Many Rumanian sympathizers in Transylvania have been sent to other sections and the Rumanian priests and churches there have been kept under military supervision. The Transylvanian Rumanian frontier defenses have been strengthened by Austria as a precaution against Rumanian invasion.

AID LONG SOUGHT.

Powerful influences on the part of the central powers and the entente allies have been exerted at Bucharest to influence her decision in the war for the last two years. Recently reports from the Rumanian capital have stated that Rumania awaited the beginning of the Anglo-French offensive in Macedonia before joining her fortunes with those of the entente allies.

Another reason for delay in her decision, it is said, has been lack of ammunition, which now has been relieved by large supplies coming from Japan by the way of Vladivostok, according to recent reports.

and peoples, sealed permanently by Italian support for French designs in Morocco and by French support for Italy's designs against Turkey in Tripoli, coupled with the equally as traditional suspicion and fear of Austria-Hungary and avidity for certain territories formerly Italian, was chiefly responsible for Italy's action early in the war and for her war on Austria.

PRINCIPAL MOTIVES.

Her partial economic dependency on England—especially as regards coal—and the favorable development of the military situation from the entente point of view are the principal motives behind her break with Germany. This development has imbued her with the hope, it is believed, that her ambition in the Adriatic, in Albania, in Asia Minor, in the north-eastern corner of the Mediterranean, and for the reconquest of "Italia Irredenta," are more capable of realization as the result of an allied victory in which she has done her full share.

VICTOR EMMANUEL LANDS

Contingent in Albania

ATHENS, Aug. 28.—The landing of the first contingent of Italian troops at Chi Mera (small seaport of Albania, on the Strait of Otranto) causes gloom throughout all Greece. The Greeks now see not only Eastern Macedonia in the hands of the Bulgarians, whom they expelled from there three years ago, but Northern Epirus in the hands of the Italians.

Following the landing of the Italian troops, the Greek civil officers were temporarily relieved of their functions and the telegraph wires were cut, and this damage was soon repaired.

M. Pachtich, the former Serbian premier, has gone to Chalkis to pay his respects to King Peter.

50,000 GREEKS DECLARE FOR WAR

King Constantine to Be Urged to Prepare Army for Possible Rupture.

ATHENS, Aug. 28.—Fifty thousand Greeks joined in a demonstration today before the residence of Venizelos, the former premier, and cheered him with boundless enthusiasm when he urged them to send a committee to King Constantine to urge him to support the present government and prepare the army for "a possible rupture of existing conditions. Addressing the multitude, Venizelos said:

"Last week I summoned you to a demonstration to show you what to do. Now I exhort you to send a committee before the king and say to him:

"Your majesty, you were the victim of persons who persuaded you there would be a German victory and you thought you could violate the constitution. The people do not approve of these facts. The reservists telegraph you that they are ready to follow you because they think you always will remain neutral."

"Elections are necessary, but you must not use your influence politically because the results would be destructive. The present government is absolutely neutral. The premier (Alexander Zaimis) is an excellent man. You should then give the government full political authority. You must now show the entente powers most benevolent neutrality and exercise the army in preparation for a possible rupture of existing conditions. The liberal party is confident as regards your position."

In concluding, Venizelos declared: "I think our desire will be favorably accomplished; otherwise I will do my best."

Italy Tells Why She Issued Declaration

ROME, Aug. 28.—Italy declared war on Germany because Germany sent both land and sea forces to the aid of Austria, compelling her to concentrate her maximum efforts against Italy, said an official statement issued here today.

A similar statement was forwarded to the German foreign office through the Swiss government setting forth the reason for the declaration of war yesterday.

Excepting the capture of Gorizia, no event of several months has so stirred the Italian public as the news of Italy's challenge to the Kaiser. Newspapers flashed the word to the Sunday holiday crowds and an enormous crowd quickly gathered in Piazza Colonna.

A great procession formed and paraded through the principal streets, shouting "Down with Germany" and "Long live the allies," until midnight. The decision of war against Germany followed by but a few hours the royal decree confiscating the historic Palazzo di Venezia, which for centuries had constituted virtually an Austrian province in the heart of Rome.

The Palazzo, a square of land with two ancient palaces, was the property of the Pope, but in 1569 was presented to the republic of Venice by Pope Pius IX. It later came into the possession of Austria and was the home of the Austrian embassy. The embassy documents were sent to the Vatican for safekeeping.

Rumanian War Act O.K. for London Financiers

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Rumanian declaration of war, though expected in some quarters, caused much satisfaction in financial circles generally. The recent decline of 5 per cent in Russian exchange was attributed to the possibility of such action, but American buying of rubles through here in the last days was the chief factor in weakening the rate and the market expects further declines in the near future.

Allies' Losses Total 40,000, Is Declared

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—French and British losses totaled 40,000 in killed and wounded during one week of the Somme offensive, according to James M. Beck, former assistant attorney-general of the United States, who returned here today from London. Beck visited the allied armies in France.

Greece Nears War's Vortex Athens Waits for Word to March

ATHENS, Aug. 28.—Bulgaria's continued advance into Greek territory and the occupation of Greek forts at the port of Kavala has brought Greece appreciably nearer to war.

No new decision has been reached by the government, but King Constantine was to hold another conference with his ministers and war chiefs today. Properly newspapers are demanding an immediate declaration of war against Bulgaria and Germany, while the pro-German papers for the most part are silent.

Pro-Allied demonstrations were held throughout Greece yesterday, centering in Athens, where ex-Premier Venizelos, leader of the Greek war party, addressed 50,000 cheering adherents. Venizelos charged that King Constantine had been misled by Germany. He urged that the King be asked to show the most benevolent neutrality toward the allies, at the same time preparing the army for possible war.

RUSSIA MAKES NEW TRADE RULE

American Importers Must Furnish Guarantee to Pay Value of Shipments.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—New regulations effecting purchase by American importers of commodities in Russia were announced here today, providing that payment must be made in advance. Before the goods can be released from the Russian empire, it was stated, the American purchasers must furnish the Russian commercial attach in this city with a guarantee that the value of the shipment has been deposited in American dollars in the National City Bank here to the credit of the minister of finance of Russia, who will pay the amount in Russian currency to the Russian exporter before the commodities are sent forward.

The new regulations, it was stated, are for immediate enforcement and are applicable also to shipments for which payment was not made prior to May 14 last.

Late Tammany Leader Quitting Irish Turf

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Dublin correspondents report that Richard Croker, formerly leader of Tammany Hall, is retiring from the turf temporarily and is going to the United States because of the condition of his eyes, which require expert attention. Croker is selling all his horses in training, but is retaining his sires and brood mares. Croker won his latest race on Saturday, when Ban-shee, starting at 20 to 1, captured the Phoenix plate, worth £1500. Both Croker and his wife backed Ban-shee, which he bought recently for £500.

Representatives of Seventy-Five Southern Growers Protest Restrictions.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Representatives of seventy-five leading Southern tobacco growers conferred here today with senators and representatives protesting against the British embargo against shipment of American tobacco to Germany and Austria beginning August 31. They proposed that the state department take prompt measures.

R. E. Cooper of Hopkinsville, Ky., spokesman for the growers, said the embargo meant "absolute ruin" for the tobacco farmers.

"It eliminates the central powers and European neutral countries our heaviest purchasers of tobacco, from the trade," he said.

Greek Civilians Fear Atrocities and Flee

KAVALA, Greece, Aug. 28.—The effect of the Bulgarian occupation of Kavala, the scene of alleged atrocities of which the Greeks accused the Bulgarians in the last war, is producing scenes of disorder. Thousands of refugees are pouring into this port from hinterland and crowding the steep, narrow streets until they are impassable. The streets are littered with every kind of household goods, flung away by the owners, fleeing before the advancing Bulgarians as before the plague.

These goods were abandoned by the fugitives upon their discovery that means of escape from the city by sea transport are inadequate. Small boats, dangerously overloaded with women and children, are rowing aimlessly about the harbor, their occupants seeking asylum aboard any vessel regardless of its destination or the price of passage. Complete panic prevails.

Artillery in Action on Macedonian Front

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Artillery fighting is in progress along the Macedonian frontier, but no infantry actions of importance are under way, so far as is indicated by today's official account of the operations on this front. The announcement follows:

"On our Drian front our artillery silenced the enemy's guns, which were bombarding our positions."

"On the Struma front the Bulgarians shelled Melk and we dispersed an enemy working party northeast of Komarni."

Italy's Act Not to Influence War Plans

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Italy's declaration of war against Germany will have no influence at all upon the military situation, German military critics declared today.

They dismissed Italy's action lightly, pointing out that General Cadorna has been unable to make important progress in fifteen months fighting against the Austrians, and that he will scarcely have any more success if he sends troops to other fronts to oppose the Germans.

Her cargo consisted only of crude rubber, barmickle and crude tin, and weighed 1,735,760 pounds.

On the Stokhod, south of Stokhod, our scouting patrols surrounded an Austrian field post, part of which was captured.

North of Mariopol our troops captured the wood east of Del-luv, where they consolidated themselves. In this operation we took prisoner one officer and thirty-seven men. We captured two machine guns.

PRISONERS NEED FOOD, DECLARED

Russians, Held by German Forces, in Serious Plight, Report.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Stories of suffering and illness among Russian prisoners in German detention camps, said to be due to lack of food, were told by C. Obermeyer, secretary of a Central Committee organized in Switzerland for relief of Russian prisoners, in a statement given out here through Alice Stone Blackwell, editor of the Woman's Magazine.

Information as to the condition of the Russians came first through delegates to the International Red Cross Commission who had visited the camps and later was verified by personal talks with former prisoners, according to Mr. Obermeyer.

"The daily ration of the prisoners is scanty," he said. "In the morning they are given coffee without milk or sugar, and 200 grammes of potato bread to last the entire day. At noon they receive a small quantity of soup, some vegetables and sometimes, but not often, a piece of meat. Supper is much the same."

"The English, French and Belgian prisoners often receive supplies of food from their governments, relief societies, or relatives and friends, but it is not so with the Russians."

SAVED HER DAUGHTER'S LIFE.
"Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved my daughter's life when she had cholera morbus at the age of fourteen months. She vomited every few minutes and we were unable to keep any medicine down long enough to benefit her until we gave her this remedy. The doctor being at our house I asked him what he thought about our using it, and he said as he was unable to do the child any good, I had better use it. The second dose she kept down and in a short time the bowels were checked and she improved rapidly after that," writes Mrs. Jennie Meyer, Lima, Ohio. For sale by Osgood Bros. Planned to Hold Harriman Heir

Youths, Under Arrest,

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 28.—Mark A. Lufkin, Davis McLoy and Ralph Cusell were landed in jail at Stanthony, Idaho, last night, and are held on a charge of plotting to abduct Roland Harriman, the 16-year-old son of Mrs. E. H. Harriman, widow of the great financier. Some weeks ago a foreman on the Harriman summer ranch on the upper Snake river, received a letter signed by one of the two men, in which they broached the project of abducting the boy and holding him in the fastness of the Idaho mountains until a big ransom was paid. The foreman led the plotters on, he declares, until today evidence enough to justify the arrest was obtained. The Stanthony chief of police declares that Lufkin and McLoy have made full confessions, but that Cusell stoutly denies knowledge of such a plot.

Mrs. Harriman and Roland were to have arrived about the ranch August 13, but on account of the threatened railroad strike gave up their trip and are still in the east.

Hearings Put Ahead One Day by Board

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—A statement issued last night by the Treasury Department says hearings will be held by the farm loan board at Sacramento, Cal., September 9, instead of September 10, as previously announced, and at Salt Lake, September 13, instead of September 14.

PHYSICIAN HELD; MURDER CHARGE

Death of Wife, Prominent Suffragist, Laid to Husband's Door.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Dr. A. Oliver Howard has been arrested, charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Frances Robertson Howard, a prominent woman suffragist and a leader in civic and club activities.

On August 15 she attended a woman-suffrage meeting, made her "first speech" and returned home apparently in good spirits. Witnesses say she came home about 6 o'clock, and her husband is said to have arrived a few minutes later. He soon ran out, calling for another doctor. He asserted his wife was unconscious from some drug.

When Dr. J. W. Price arrived, Mrs. Howard was dead. Her clothing was arranged and there were marks on her neck and nose. Her husband asserted he had found her locked in the room, lying on the bed. He declared he slapped her face in an effort to revive her.

The undertaker testified, however, that the coroner's jury was that Mrs. Howard had come to her death from a dislocated neck and that with the evidence produced before us there is probable cause to believe that the said act of violence was committed at the hands of Oliver A. Howard.

Dr. Howard declares he is innocent.

Ban on Beet Seed Exports Until Fall

CHARLIE RAY IN 'DESERTER' SCORES

Franklin Photo Play Shows Star in Congenial Role.

A sure-fire vehicle is provided Charlie Ray in "The Deserter," now playing at the Franklin. It is a role somewhat similar to Frank Winslow in the face production, "The Coward," one of the first triangle plays. But in no other respects are the pictures alike, save in this: that both are excellent.

It can easily be understood why Ray was made a star for the very good reason that he is a real actor. Here he is seen as an American army lieutenant, who deserts rather than face court-martial for his participation in a disgraceful brawl, and then redeems himself later by saving a band of settlers from total annihilation in a fight with Indians. Those who are acquainted with Ray's remarkable ability to put over a part of this sort, need only to be assured that he is given ample opportunity to do so in this picture, and that the picture is up to the mark in other ways.

There are some splendid bits of realism, some magnificent western panoramas, some thrilling riding, some stirring fights, to off-set the strong emotionalism which is thrown around the young lieutenant. It is distinctly an action picture, and Director Scott Sidney has done his work in very fine style.

The remainder of the bill is also exceptionally good. The Keystone comedy, "A Social Cuckoo," is an original in plot and action and contains many amusing situations. Sidney Drew's travesty of "The Merchant of Venice" is a good share of the laughs. The Hearst News Weekly covers a wide variety of subjects, many of which are of more than usual interest. The program will be shown at the Franklin again today and tomorrow.

Avenge Betrayal of Secrets With Dagger

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—That the Avenging Angels of an Oriental tong have unthought the silent dagger of their brotherhood, a rumor escaped today indicating that federal officers here are contending not only with opium smugglers, but with an all-powerful secret society or tong, whose word is infallible and whose members are all sworn to sacrifice traitors by the subtle and swift knife in the yellow hands of the rulers of the clan.

A brief news report from San Diego threw the strong light of government investigation into the reported star chamber of the tong. The San Diego police battered in a barred door in the Oriental section. They found two young Chinamen facing each other with knives.

One lay on the floor dead. The matter was entered on the police records as a brawl. With customary silence, the surviving gladiators refused to talk, and feigned ignorance.

A federal officer here today drew upon his knowledge of the Oriental character and offered a solution of the strange mystery of three men fighting a death struggle behind the locked doors. He said:

"I believe that one of the men was accused of betraying a criminal among them. He accused two others. From his seat at the right end of the statue of Buddha the pontificate of the tong decreed that they must battle, each the other, for the survival of the fittest."

Merced Fair to Have Many New Features

MERCED, Aug. 28.—Besides offering a full quota of agricultural, horticultural, livestock and economic exhibits typifying this county's possibilities and advancement in those lines, the directors of the Merced County Fair Association are planning also to add a number of special exhibit attractions from other parts of the state at the county fair to be held here for five days—September 19 to 23, inclusive. This decision was announced today after a meeting of the board last night. Manager Walter H. Robinson was authorized to contract for 20,000 square feet of tent space for housing the exhibits.

One of the chief exhibits from abroad will be the display of the California Fish and Game Commission, which will be a living demonstration of the development of fresh water fish of several varieties. The exhibition of local artistic products will be enriched by the addition of some prize paintings from private galleries of art lovers. Rare flowers and other botanical exhibits will be shown in a special department. Many of these will be brought from Southern California, the purpose being to show the possibilities in floral production which could be developed here. Fruit packing houses will install some important displays.

Engraving Distasteful to Humorous Burglar

"Left the silver because it has the initials on it." This is the ironic message which a burglar with a sense of humor left attached to a chandelier in an upper bedroom of the home of G. W. Dearborn, 3212 East Fifteenth street, last night, after he had ransacked the place and taken jewelry and coin of considerable value.

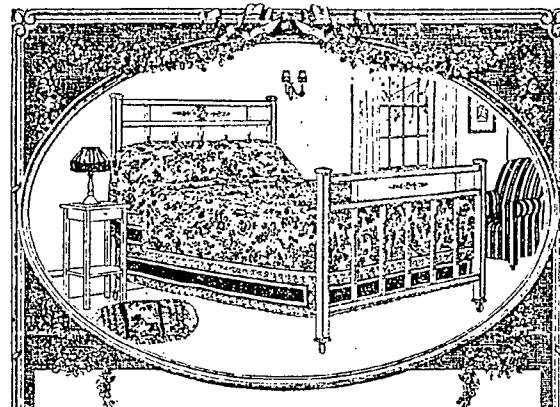

Next to the hanging placard the jokester had suspended a silver carving knife, hanging it by a silken thread, evidently in remembrance of the tale of the sword of Damocles. Evidence that the thief was little perturbed by the dangers of his occupation was furnished by a bowl of walnuts which he had removed from the dining-room and carried to the room

WILLIS H. BOOTH FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

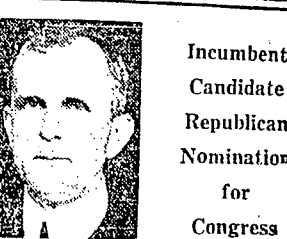

Willis H. Booth appeals to the Republican voters of California at the primary election for the United States Senator on Tuesday next. He is both a self-made and successful business man. He has traveled the road from the rough and ready work of a machine shop to the head of some of the foremost business enterprises in California—the Hotpoint electric iron business at Ontario, California, and the Security Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles. When a boy he sold newspapers on the streets of Los Angeles. Afterwards he learned and worked at the trade of machinist. With this knowledge and his American spirit and ambition he founded the Western Laundry Machinery Company and the American Wood Working Machine Company—both successful concerns today. In his enterprises at Ontario he established the eight-hour day for women more than two years before the introduction of which he has been associated he has never had a single labor dispute with his employees. He was endorsed for United States Senator by eleven hundred representative Republicans, consisting of the members of the Republican State Central Committee and of the various county committees at the state-wide conference recently held in San Francisco. He seeks but one nomination—that of the Republican party. He is a Republican in all that the Republicanism of Lincoln implies. His attitude toward labor has made him beloved by everyone of his employees as well as the labor elements of the South. A vote for him is a vote for the preservation of the Republican party and for business efficiency in the affairs of the nation. One of the best tributes to his worth is the statement of Estelle Lawton Lindsay, labor council woman of Los Angeles, who says: "We toilers who know his life and work appreciate his worth and realize his broad sympathy for his fellow men."

BIG FEES FOR LAW

Court Grants Demands of Attorneys in Foreclosure Matter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Two minutes on the witness stand before Federal Judge Van Fleet this morning deprived Warren Olney Jr. and Frank G. Drury, receivers of the Western Pacific Railway of a total of $30,000 as fees for conducting the affairs of the road. The two men must each pay $15,000 each, whereas Attorney John F. Bowle announced that the company was prepared to allow them $50,000 had they requested it.

Large melons were cut for a number of attorneys and officials concerned in the reorganization and sale of the property of the railroad, which they held in receivership by counsel for the receivers, John F. Partridge, who was allowed $60,000, which sum, however, was scarcely half of its original demand.

Garrett W. McEnerney, who appeared in the proceedings. One of the witnesses, himself, testified that he earned $10,000, and was given that sum.

Attorney W. I. Brobeck intimated that a settlement had been made by all parties. When he was called to testify, he said that he was called to testify only as to what he thought Partridge should receive for his services. He was thereupon then called upon to name the fee.

Among the other fees awarded were $3,000 to the firm of Murray, Hull and $3,000 additional for his trip to Europe and to settle with the foreign bondholders; $25,000 to Jared Ilov, counsel for the Equitable Trust Company, holder for the most part of the mortgage; $5,000 to Murray, Prentice and Howland, New York attorneys; $1000 to the firm of Mastick & Lucke of New York; $25,000 to the Equitable Trust company of New York; $100,000 to William H. Sutro, who represented the intervenors, the Savings Union Bank.

Judge Van Fleet expressed himself as satisfied that the fees were, in his judgment, very amply reasonable.

Warren Olney was on the witness stand and stated that he and Drum expected $35,000 each.

"We were prepared to concede both receivers $50,000," said Bowler.

Lange Divorce Suit Taken from Calendar

That the marital differences between Charles E. Lange, wealthy contractor and his wife, Kathryn L. Lange, are not to be dragged through the courts, was evidenced today when his divorce complaint, filed last Friday, was dismissed. The dismissal was made upon motion of the plaintiff.

Charges of cruelty were contained in the complaint, counsel for Lange stated at the time the suit was filed. Mrs. Lange was a former Los Angeles girl. The couple have two children. They recently lived in the Park Gate apartments in Grand avenue.

George A. Murry, in a suit against his wife, Cassie R. Murry, alleges that she became acquainted with a railroad conductor and transferred her affections to him.

Charges of failure to provide are contained in the suit brought by Jennie De Vos Bradley against Charles Weston Bradley.

MEXICAN TOWN IN HANDS OF BANDITS

Villa Gang Drives Federal Troops From Sateo and Occupies Place.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mex., Aug. 28.—Three hundred Villa bandits captured the town of Sateo, Chihuahua, fifty miles south of here, on Friday, according to reports to Gen. Juvencio Trevino yesterday. The town, under the Arango and Martin Lopez, surrounded the town, and after six hours' battle the karrion, numbering 200, under Captain de la Fuente, being without ammunition, was forced to evacuate. Villa himself was not with the outlaws, it was said.

The dispatches, which came from General Elizondo, made no estimate of the casualties on either side, but said that both the bandits and government troops lost heavily. In the early hours of the engagement a number of outlaws were captured and executed.

The garrison withdrew in order, according to the reports, to the hills, where they were reinforced by detachments of General Elizondo's command and plans have been made to attempt to recapture Sateo. General Trevino said that no apprehension need be felt here as to a further northward progress of the band.

A second engagement with Villistas was reported by General Apolinario Trevino from Torreon. He said that twenty bandits, under the leader Peranza attacked a small detachment of Carranza troops at Hacienda Covelo, in the Lazama district, but were driven off their leader and six others being killed after three hours' fighting. Letters from Villa under a recent date were found in Peranza's pockets, it was reported.

General Cavazos, reporting from Guerrero, said he had captured the town of Paderuellos, Chihuahua, and asked orders for their disposition.

Some excitement was caused here today by a widespread rumor that the American south, but in his report General Cavazos said their southernmost base is still El Valle.

BERKELEY, Aug. 28.—A vaudeville show written, rehearsed, produced and acted by Berkeley high school students will be presented at the high school auditorium on the evening of September 1.

Among the tabloids, sketches and comedies to be presented are "An Experiment in Souls," by Hall Griffith; "Mr. Editor," by Fereve Huffstead; "The Burial," by Dorothy Sten and "The Rehearsal," by Elaine Beaman.

An "Experiment in Souls" is said to delve into the realms of the infinite, while the plot is laid in a very modern scene. It is termed a problem play with high lights of comedy and it said to be an experiment in playlet writing as well as in souls.

Elaine Beaman who has written "The Rehearsal," has chosen a new theme for her playlet, although satisfied with a conventional title. The plot of the play will be kept secret until the production.

A number of classic dances will be interspersed between the playlets, over the high school orchestra will furnish the music.

Rehearsals are going on daily and are conducted by the authors, some of whom will assume the principal characters in their productions.

There is a certain amount of interest in the first production of the school year which usually sets a standard for the efforts which are produced later in the year.

SAFETY FIRST SIGNS WARN ALL OAKLAND

Maids and Matrons Tag Businessmen in Streets, Admonishing Auto Drivers and Pedestrians to Be Cautious

Ten Commandments Are Given to School Children; Entire City Takes Thought to Use Means to Avoid Accidents

Tag days have become an institution of American civic life, but a tag day of a different kind is being celebrated in Oakland today. It is a tag day of co-operation for the public weal in which every citizen is reminded that next to the instinct for self-preservation should come the instinct to protect others from danger. "Safety first" is the rule of the day and tags with this device are fluttering from every corner.

Oakland's "Safety First" week began this morning bright and early, when bevy of fair damsels and matrons greeted Mr. Business Man as he proceeded to his office and his tags bearing the ten commandments of Safety First in the turmoil of the streets. The distribution was free and the only request made was that the tag be worn and that the wearer observe the rules of the game to protect his neighbor.

The "Safety First" idea has met with an instant response on the part of Oakland citizens and the educational value of the campaign is recognized. Nine accidents out of every ten in city streets are due to somebody's carelessness, and alertness on the part of the individual will reduce this ratio greatly. It is merely an extension of the Golden Rule to everyday life.

LEARN TEN COMMANDMENTS.

If you are a driver of a motor car consider the rights of the passerby and regard his safety as your own. If you are a pedestrian don't give the automobile heart failure by stopping in front of his car. Think and act "safety first."

The tags for pedestrians distributed today contain the following ten commandments:

Look both ways before crossing the street.

Cross the street at a regular crossing, not diagonally or in the middle of a block.

Don't read a paper when crossing a street.

Always obey the traffic officer's signals and commands.

Keep your eyes open for trolleys, autos and wagons.

When alighting from a street car never go behind the car unless the way is clear.

Do not jump on or off a moving street car; wait until the car stops.

When carrying an umbrella do not permit it to obstruct your view.

Do not carry a cane or umbrella under your arm in a crowd or when using stairways.

Always keep to the right; don't cut corners.

DON'TS FOR CHILDREN.

For the children the following admonitions, printed on tags, were distributed in the various schools and on the streets:

Don't play in the roadway.

Play on the sidewalk or on the nearest playground or vacant lot.

Roller skate on the sidewalk.

Never chase a ball across the street.

Don't hitch on autos, trolleys or wagons.

Don't coast where trolleys or autos go.

Don't play around autos or touch any of the levers.

Never touch wires at any time or place.

Don't fear the policeman; they will help and protect you.

Never run behind a standing trolley car; there may be another car or auto approaching on the other side.

Herbert W. Martland, chairman of the Safety First committee in Oakland, is elated over the manner in which the citizens are responding to the slogan. From present indications he declares that the "Safety First" week will be the most successful affair of the kind ever held in the country.

NORA BAYES IS ALL THEY SAY OF HER

Orpheum Star Has the Genius for Entertaining; Harry Holman Scores.

There must be high lights on every picture. Nora Bayes and Harry Holman were yesterday's headlines on the Orpheum canvas. They high lighted the otherwise mediocre bill into a masterpiece class. Nora Bayes is all they say about her—and a few more, besides. She has the genius for entertaining. Every one of her numbers, too, were picked to give her the most in them. She squeezed the songs into the thirty minutes and didn't seem to have enough of the flavored nectar even when the clock was close to dinner time.

Miss Bayes does syncopation the way it was originally constructed. She has a deep, clear voice, and uses it for her colored melodies to great advantage. Her "When Mother Was a Girl" song deserves special mention as does that gown. "That gown" how can one describe it? One can't and won't attempt it! It defies description. Perhaps last night's blunder and lightning were a direct result of that gown's presence in our fair city. Even with a less elaborate robe, though, Miss Bayes could sing her songs and headline most bills we've seen around here.

Harry Holman and company came at the last of the bill, but not at the least end of it. The sketch "A Day in the Life" did not strangle the laughter in the audience, although the name might indicate otherwise. Holman is dry, stout and funny. The combination is unusual but effective. It all centers about the gloomy father of the effervescent son and the willing-to-be-married stenographer in the office. The fact that the son does marry the stenographer or becomes one of them is left to the audience to decide.

Boudlin Brothers come back to us again with a new selection of syncopation melodies and several of the old, popular classics. There aren't very many performers today on the Orpheum like those who greeted them when they first came before the footlights yesterday in proof that they are fixtures to Orpheum audiences.

Lew Madden and company in a behind-the-scenes skit, known as "Monday Morning," put their regular humor into an applause-getter across the footlights and reap a good harvest. It is all about two men on a vaudeville bill ruined by the absence of partners. The remaining partners, men and girl, rehearse together, and then are able to announce their engagement—theatrical and real death-of-us-part." It is well done, foolery with Madden playing the piano with one hand better than most of us can do it with two.

The Orpheum players in "Your Neighbor's Wife" manage to make laughable material out of rather serious stuff. It's not the fault of the comedy at all that it's stale. Most comedy is stale these days, because it's not new. There's nothing new in comedy under the spot-light. Ideas, most of 'em, are worked to death. This idea is not entirely original, only it was used in comedy before when it was set to music.

Motion pictures come in for their share on yesterday's bill. They are good pictures. The Burton Holmes "Travelogue," especially, has a rare quality about it, which makes us long for steamship hands—and money! The real travelogue, though, are good substitutes. A cartoon comedy brought lots of laughter.

Crowds in Play Of Exposition

Grauman's "Night" Is Hit at Macdonough

Gay crowds thronged the stage at the Macdonough last night amid a wood-and-canvas reproduction of San Francisco's World's Fair. Art Smith repeated his nights of 1915 in moving pictures. Hawaiian dancers offered during specimens of their art in "zone" attractions; "Stella" posed in "The Altogether," and there were other remembrances of the fair, brought back to life. This was the "Night at the World's Fair," the mammoth production being offered this week at the Macdonough by Sid Grauman. With it he is offering his other success, "Twenty Minutes at Coffee Dan's," showing the Thalia dance hall, the underworld, Pacific street and the opium dens of Chinatown.

The Grauman production is scenically elaborate, and a large cast offers the various scenes. The show is just a collection of scenes, often in all, showing the sights seen by a party who visit the fair and then go slumming.

The Aloha twins, Hawaiian dancers, offer a daring sample of the Hula in the "zone scene." Madeline Zuma, snake dancer, is another attraction in the "zone," and the "California People" are seen in dances before the Tower of Jewels. Scott Buttersworth, the "Souze," is the comedian of the piece, wandering through the scenes in a condition of comic inspiration.

The book of the piece, written by Sid Grauman, is replete with clever bits, and Walter Montague's staging is all that could be desired. The amount of work involved in building the scenes was enormous. Grauman's trick of lighting the buildings, even as they were lit at the fair, is particularly effective.

The cast is a crowd. A few special lines are spoken here and there, usually the crowds just wander about as they did at the fair.

"The World's Fair" is unlike anything ever staged before. It will play during the coming week.

OAKLAND PHOTO

Following her thrilling romance in "Silks and Satins," Little Margaret Clark starred by the Famous Players Film Company in an entirely new environment as "Little Lady Eileen." The scenes of this quaint little play are laid on the Emerald Isle, where Miss Clark has an opportunity to introduce on the screen a new character, that of a typical little Irish lassie who is an unperverted behavior in fables. Miss Clark has a notable cast in her support, including Russell Bassett, Harry Lee and Vernon Steele.

J. Searle Dawley, who has directed Margaret Clark in the majority of her successes for the Famous Players, is the director of this delightful photoplay, which is now playing at T. & J.'s Oakland Photo Theater today and tomorrow. The irresistible Margaret Clark makes of "Little Lady Eileen" an exquisite, mischievous, charming characterization that will live in your memory as long as did the fairy tales your mother told.

Another well known picture on the same program, Gail Kane in "Paying the Price," an interesting play of love, invention and government life in Washington. Several scenes were taken aboard a destroyer, two huge torpedoes were exploded, showing up one of New York's oldest ferry boats, and an insight into the experiments of the U. S. Government in trying out and formulating explosives.

The romance of the Grape Industry" completes this big double feature program.

IDORA PARK

Owing to the many attractions at the Park yesterday an unusually large crowd of transbay people visited Idora. About 20,000 people passed through the gates. An unusually attractive beach program was featured in the afternoon, the presentation of the entire program, the Monte Cristo divo by Miss Bobbie Deane. Miss Deane is tied securely in a large coil sack and is thrown off the high dive board and in one quarter of a minute comes up carrying the sack. This is the first time that this dive in a securely tied sack has been attempted in an open tank of fresh water. This dive was made famous by the well known magician Houdini, who aroused a tremendous amount of interest by dropping from a New York bridge securely tied in a sack and emerging a few seconds later with the sack in his hands still tied. No knife or any implement whatsoever is used and the public is invited to inspect the sack and who ever will is requested to tie the sack before her leap into the water. This dive is given every afternoon at 3 o'clock.

On Sunday, September 3, and Labor Day, September 4, the Bathing Girl Pageant is to be given. Large cash prizes are being offered by the management for the prettiest girl and the handsomest boy in the suit. If you, an attractive bathing suit send in your name to the advertising manager and receive your entry number for the parade. This is the first large beach pageant held in Northern California.

FIRST HONORS ARE GIVEN ROCHMAN

Pantages Orchestra Leader Center of Unexpected Act; Is Merry Show.

Although Bob Albright may be the headliner at Pantages this week, there can be no doubt that he was glad to relinquish first honors to Mike Rochman, orchestra leader, last night. Mike returned to the pit after the weeks of honeymoon-vacation. He ran away without letting anyone at the theater know. Therefore last night he was received royally by everybody. Albright, at the end of his act, told the audience all about it, and Mike, blushing like a chaste-colored well-bred, resolved to accept congratulations from the orchestra. It was a happy party and everyone enjoyed it excepting, possibly, Mike. However, Albright caused considerable applause last night despite the fact that he had a cold. He sang fewer songs, but he told more stories than we have heard him recite heretofore. They were good stories, but we'd much rather have him sing. However, Rob Albright seems to carry his applause with him. People like him, because he simply tries to please them as best he can. And his best is top-high.

"ELOPERS" WIN.

Although "The Elopers" didn't have the faintest idea what they were supposed to be doing, any more than the audience, the party of the first and second parts seemed to understand each other very well. Although the stage setting was a cubist affair—very artistic—there were plenty of curves present. The chorus were not square by any means. Teddy McNamara and his friends, back again, and "The Elopers" win because of their work rather than the goodness or badness of the miniature musical comedy itself.

Homey Dickinson and Grace Deagon form a song and dance team different, entirely so—from the rest. Miss Deagon has the voice of a pronounced ingenue, a sea child-like, as it were. She looks up into her partner's eyes, and the partner promptly makes a remark which brings laughter. Really, it is a funny act. Miss Deagon's girl "bit" is well done, while Dickinson's agonized quips at her personality help in the fun-making decidedly.

MORRIS MAKES FUN.

Will Morris, who coveys and makes fun as a tramp comedian brings lots of laughter. If he didn't consciously imitate Joe Jackson, he'd like him a lot better. But even then, he shows that he can do plenty of tricks with the bicycle. Sam La Zar and Josh Dale, blackface men of merit, give us something really better in their skit, "Joining the Union." It is the old, old story of the boob colored man and his spite-and-evil, better educated friend. They argue the audience into laughter, and then end their act with a screaming musical finish.

James A. Davett and Ninon Duval in "Holding Out" give us the supposed inside of an unemployed actor's life. If that's the way it is, why want to be an actor? However, it's funny in most places, and pathetic in a few. What treatment seems to win, Florence Rayfield, a singing single act, disposed of her number in excellent fashion. She is good to look at, and has a good-in-hear-voice. We should get rid of "Blue Shoes," however. The song is worn out—just like the shoes.

GRAND OLD MEN G. A. R. MEET

Fiftieth National Encampment Gathers in Kansas City for Session.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 28.—With the calling to order this morning of the executive committee of the national council of administration, the fiftieth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was ushered into official being. Immediately following was the session of the committee on credentials. Meetings of the Women's Relief Corps and of the varied allied organizations of the Grand Army of the Republic were scheduled throughout the day in their headquarters in the different hotels.

At Convention hall, where the meetings of the encampment will be held, little knots of veterans formed and unfurled before the various headquarters as new arrivals entered and were greeted by comrades in arms.

Veterans continue arriving on every train. Troops of Boy Scouts are doing valiant service piloting their aged comrades to their hotels.

White Man and Negro Duel in Movie House

PITTSBURGH, Kas., Aug. 28.—William M. Reed, a white man, and Virgil Cobb, a negro, eluded up a long-standing quarrel last night at Crowburg, a mining camp near here, and chose a crowded picture show for a battleground. During the fusillade of shots, which soon cleared the house of spectators, both men were mortally wounded and died in a short time. Many patrons of the show were trampled upon in the rush but none was injured.

CONTROL OF THE SENATE.

Next to the election of Governor Hughes as President the most important duty before the Republican party at the November election is to win control of the United States Senate. The Democrats now have a majority of sixteen in the Senate and it is conceded that it will be a big achievement to supplant this with a Republican majority. But unless it is done the work of the Republican President in carrying out Republican policies will be greatly, perhaps vitally, handicapped. It therefore behooves Republicans in every State to watch the senatorial contest closely, with a view to sending to Congress a man who can be relied upon to give the new President a working majority in that body. Terms of the following Senators expire in March, 1917, and their successors are to be chosen in November:

DEMOCRATS—Ashurst of Arizona, Bryan of Florida, Chilton of West Virginia, Culberson of Texas, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Johnson of Maine, Lea of Tennessee, Lee of Maryland, Martine of New Jersey, Myers of Montana, O'Gorman of New York, Pittman of Nevada, Pomeroy of Ohio, Reed of Missouri, Swanson of Virginia, Taggart of Indiana and Williams of Mississippi.

REPUBLICANS—Cannon of New Mexico, Clapp of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, du Pont of Delaware, La Follette of Wisconsin, Lippitt of Rhode Island, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCallum of North Dakota, McLean of Connecticut, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Page of Vermont, Poindexter of Washington, Sutherland of Utah, Townsend of Michigan and Works of California.

These thirty-four Senators are to be elected by direct vote and the list includes the successor to Senator Works of California. In Maine and Indiana two Senators are to be chosen, due to the deaths of Senators Burleigh and Shively, respectively. If Mr. Hughes is elected, in order to give him a majority in the Senate it will be necessary to elect a Republican to all the places now occupied by Republicans and to win at least nine of the senatorships now held by Democrats. Under the system of electing Senators by popular vote, and with the people taking almost as keen an interest in the senatorship as in the Presidency, the result will be accomplished without difficulty if Mr. Hughes is elected by a large popular majority.

But it also is important in nominating Republican candidates for the senatorship to see to it that a Republican is selected who can be depended upon to uphold the President, who will acknowledge the President as the leader of the party and the guardian of Republican doctrines while he is in office.

SOME INACCURACIES.

Mr. Vance L. McCormick, manager of the Wilson campaign for the Presidency, recently published a list of the accomplishments he credits to the present administration. They were carefully tabulated, paragraphed and numbered from 1 to 20. A preliminary scrutiny of the list discloses that Mr. McCormick made a number of errors. The records show the following comment justified on nearly half of the claims. The paragraph numbers are the same as given in Mr. McCormick's list of twenty:

- (Eight-hour law applying to work done for the government.) In effect March 1, 1913, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Eight-hour provision for postoffice employees.) In effect generally, August 24, 1912. Eight-hour section in effect March 4, 1913, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Eight-hour provision applying to civilians engaged in manufacture of ordnance and powder for government.) In effect January 1, 1913, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Children's bureau law.) In effect April 9, 1912, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Industrial commission law.) In effect August 23, 1912, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Phosphorus match law.) Enacted in 1912, effective as to the importation of white phosphorus matches January 1, 1913, and as to the manufacture of such matches, July 1, 1913. Signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Department of Labor law.) In effect March 4, 1913, signed by Mr. Taft.
- (Parcel post law.) In effect January 1, 1913, signed by Mr. Taft.

Several others of the laws listed as signed by Mr. Wilson should be partly credited to previous administrations, as they had long been under discussion in Congress, but failed of enactment because of the solid Democratic opposition. However, the purpose of these remarks is merely to show that any list Mr. McCormick may put out in the future must be accepted with caution and carefully inspected with a view to eliminating "padding."

JOB FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

The Rockefeller Institute has appropriated from its endowment funds the sum of $50,000 for research and preventive work in connection with the infantile paralysis plague in New York City. This was praiseworthy action and the efforts which this fund will cause and enable to be exerted should have the unreserved approval of the people of every city and State. The people are appreciative of the efforts of this philanthropic foundation and if a cure for the disease is discovered they will be under deep and lasting obligations.

But let us think over this question: Is the work such that it should be performed exclusively by a private institution? Infantile paralysis is not confined to the babies of New York City. It has claimed victims in other large cities during the last eight months, and in nearly every State in the Union. It is a scourge that shows the grim record of forty-five percent fatalities and twelve thousand cases have developed in New York City alone.

Infantile paralysis in the United States being a national affliction, it is a national problem. The people generally want to know and they certainly should be informed as to what are the best measures to prevent dissemination of the disease, and they have a right to demand that every effort be exerted to find a remedy for it. The people of the whole nation should not be obliged to go to a private office in New York City for information, no matter how gladly it is given or devoutly desired. The federal government ought to help, liberally and substantially. It is properly a government work from every viewpoint. Yet Congress is consuming all its time with discussions of new direct taxes on the people, of a political shipping scheme and an immigration measure which the President threatens to veto. If the members of Congress are determined to close the session on a certain date and go home to the local elections, why not let one of these unnecessary measures wait until next December and take up a measure to provide for effective means for fighting infantile paralysis—at once?

Addressing the British House of Commons, Premier Asquith said the question of the franchise for women was too complex and controversial a subject to introduce for discussion during the war, but, he said, the women had presented him an unanswerable case and had assured him that if no attempt at modification of the present franchise was made they were content to wait the conclusion of hostilities. That was a very fair proposition and Premier Asquith has promised the women his support later on. If the three million women now engaged in male occupation should appear before parliament at the conclusion of peace and exhibit their wage accounts it is inconceivable that there would be much opposition to their petition. It is very probable that most of the present antagonists of woman suffrage would prefer to reverse their stand to being recorded as an official ingrate for the sake of a petty and exploded tradition:

Mr. Weinstock's market commission, the members of which have undertaken to control the price of fish, faces some uncomfortable inquiries. River fishermen having quit work because their remuneration is to be reduced from five to four cents a pound, the retail prices of twenty cents a pound for river salmon and thirteen cents for Monterey salmon appear in incongruous contrast. The consumer naturally would like to know why the wholesalers and marketers exact as their profit sixteen cents for handling river salmon and eight cents for bay salmon, when the productive cost is the same. Even eight cents a pound appears an inordinate tribute for middlemen to levy, but why should this be increased 100 percent on an article costing the same at its origin?

UNDER OUR FLAG ON THE PACIFIC.

(From the New York Times.)
Friends of the Seamen's act who point to resumption of service across the Pacific by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company as evidence that this legislation was not harmful do not take into account the present abnormal freight conditions and the explanations given by the company's officers. This service was discontinued nearly a year ago because the Seamen's act so increased the cost of operation that the company could not compete with the ships of Japan without suffering considerable loss. Moreover, those ships have the benefit of subsidies. Several of the Pacific Mail boats were sold, and control of the company was purchased by the American International Corporation and W. R. Grace & Co.

By the new owners the discontinued service is now resumed in an experimental way, simply because very high freight rates, caused by the war, overcome the disadvantages due to increased cost of operation. But after the war it may be dropped again. The company's president says:
It became impossible for American capital to operate ships on the Pacific Ocean under the American flag in normal times, partly on account of the cost of the construction of American vessels, but principally because of the increase of operating costs over those of other nations. If the Seamen's act is left unmodified, and the Alexander Shipping bill should become a law without material modification, then this condition of affairs will again prevail in normal times.
Under existing laws it must be only a temporary service, only by a revision of them can it be made permanent and the only transpacific line under the American flag be kept at work. This president believes that eventually Congress will see the wisdom of encouraging, instead of preventing, the use of American capital in such undertakings. We hope events will show that his belief is well founded.

NOTES and COMMENT

A movie film has been banned in San Francisco on the ground that it is immoral. There is no sign that the projectors have a hand in the disapproval proceedings, but it's a great ad.

That a scion of T. R. has been arrested for speeding tends to prove some theories as to heredity, and strengthens the contention that all do it when they get behind a steering wheel.

The railroad ruction, up to a certain point, gave considerable promise of yielding political capital to the national administration, but the program went awry and it is likely to be more like a boomerang than a clever political turn.

"New thrill in store for American dancers—National Association experts are working on one." There is much wonder as to what it can possibly be. Except dancing on their heads the "experts" have already performed terpsichoreanly in about every possible way.

Santa Ana Blade: "The governor did not make any votes by ignoring the coming of Mr. Hughes to the same Long Beach hotel where the Johnson party was quartered. This governor of ours can do some pretty small things."

Other communities have their speed troubles, as we learn from the Redding Searchlight: "Redding officers have arrested high speeders from Anderson. Now Anderson has retaliated by nabbing auto speeders from Redding. These reprisals must stop, or Redding will declare war on Anderson."

The Chico Enterprise loses no time in going after the combine: "The new $25,000,000 merger of the canning interests of California leaves the field wide open for an independent cannery in Chico owned by local producers. The fact that the combination has set aside $10,000,000 with which to buy out other properties need not scare anyone."

This explanation of the reason why the President didn't come is from the Colusa Sun: "In regard to public duty, would it not be a glorious thing if more would follow the President's example? He wished all the year of the Exposition to come West, but duty, public duty, caused him to be at his post."

Editor Giacomazzi of the Soledad Bee describes the regular time he had: "The editor found time to journey up to the city last week and met with a number of his fellow editors at three meetings; also we had the pleasure of listening to three addresses by Mr. Hughes. Two banquets were graced with our presence and we assure our readers that it is fortunate that we are able to be on hand to get out this week's edition."

Interesting sartorial item from the Santa Rosa Republican: "Citizens of Chicago are finding in their mails circulars from tailors in Japan offering men's clothes at prices far below any that can be quoted in that city. The clothes from Japan are not ready-made, but are to be fashioned for each customer, who has only to send an old shirt, from which the clever Japanese tailors claim to be able to construct the entire man who is to be clothed."

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Hop picking goes on merrily and with apparent unconcern as to the outcome of either of the dry amendments.—Chico Enterprise.

A more or less famous educator wants women to quit teaching school. He says they are "feminizing" the boy pupils. Now, what does he mean by that? Perhaps the same thing that Roosevelt means when he mentions a mollycoddle.—Salinas Index.

Arbitrators hearing the damage suit of J. H. Carey against the city of Richmond for $50,000 postponed the matter until tomorrow. Carey alleges damages in that amount to his brickyard on the outer harbor were caused by the construction of the municipal highway.—Richmond Record-Herald.

The forest fires which have raged in the mountains in western Colusa county since last Sunday have been responsible for the death of more than one hundred deer, was the news brought in from Stonyford today. The deer in many instances would escape the flames, but being bewildered, would turn back into the fire.—Colusa Sun.

The shipments of canning peaches to outside canneries, which slackened somewhat after the Tuscan clings had been sent out, has been resumed on later varieties and will continue for some weeks. At Bogus from ten to fifteen carloads per day are going out and several cars daily also from Oswald and Yuba City and other stations along the line.—Sutter County Farmer.

WAR'S DEMANDS ON WOOL.

The amount of wool being used for military uniforms is tremendous and of greater proportions than is generally imagined. With the great wool trade centers of Roubaix, Tourcoing and Lodz in the hands of the Germans, England has been forced to furnish her allies up to January 1 with at least 45,000,000 yards of cloth, while her own army has consumed about 10,000,000 yards. In addition to that, during the same period, the British army has been supplied with 35,000,000 yards of socks and 11,000,000 suits of underwear, besides something like 12,000,000 blankets. Since the first of the present year, at least 1,500,000 men have been added to the British army, so that it would not be surprising if the figure of the amount of woolen goods consumed were doubled at the end of the year.
All of this will require a vast amount of wool and the wisdom of England in conserving her available supplies at this time is important to that nation because if the war continues wool will become as valuable as shells.—Fibre and Fabric.

THE NEW RURAL CREDITS LEGISLATION

Provisions and Operation of the Federal Farm Loan Act Explained; Will Have Far-Reaching Effect on Agriculture and Banking

One of the most important pieces of legislation passed by the present Congress is the Federal Farm Loan Act. An admirable description of the provisions of the law and explanation of its administration and operation is contained in three installments. The first was printed Saturday; the second was printed Sunday, and the concluding one appears below.

EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION.

Every federal land bank and every national farm loan association, including the capital and reserve or surplus therein and the income derived therefrom, is exempt from federal, state and local taxation, except taxes upon real estate. First mortgages issued to the federal land banks, or joint stock land banks, and farm loan bonds issued under the provisions of this act, shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the government of the United States, and as such they and the income derived therefrom shall be exempt from Federal, state, municipal and local taxation. This declaration would seem to imply that these bonds are practically guaranteed by the government but there is no guaranty.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITARIES.

There are two provisions in the act authorizing United States government depositaries. Section six provides that federal land banks and joint stock banks may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury as depositaries of public money, except receipts from customs and that they may be also employed as financial agents of the government, and shall perform such reasonable duties as may be required of them. The Secretary of the Treasury shall require them to give security for the safe-keeping of monies and for the faithful performance of their duties as financial agents. No government funds deposited under the provisions of this section shall be invested in mortgage loans or farm loans. Apparently this section is to secure to the Treasury the services of these banks in selling government bonds, if this should be desirable.

Section 32 provides that the Secretary of the Treasury may in his discretion, upon the request of the Farm Loan Board, make deposits for the temporary use of any Federal land bank. Such deposits shall be secured by farm loan bonds or other security satisfactory to the Secretary of the Treasury, and shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding the current rate upon other public deposits. The aggregate of all sums so deposited in the land banks at any one time shall not exceed $5,000,000. The purpose of this provision is doubtless to enable the Treasury to come to the assistance of the land banks in an emergency, as for example upon the maturity of an issue of bonds.

DOUBTFUL FEATURES OF SYSTEM.

That this system, supported as it is by the government, can be carried through to be eventually a working success, will hardly be doubted. Criticism will be directed first to the elaborate organization, which many regard as more expensive than necessary; and, second, to certain features that are deemed unsound in principle and unnecessary to the achievement of the end sought. Until after a year has elapsed no loans can be accepted unless the applications come through the local, or neighborhood, associations, membership in which is restricted to intending borrowers. The authors of the measure doubtless believe that the farmers' needs are so pressing that there will be a rush to organize these associations. Time will show whether the farmers who are eligible under the terms of the act will promptly take steps to utilize it. A large proportion of such farmers already have mortgages outstanding, and must pay them off according to their terms. Moreover, they may be disposed to wait and see what advantages will be gained by shifting their loans to the new system. In the older states, where the common rate on farm loans is 5 to 6 percent, it is not clear that there will be any inducement to early action. Although the law permits different interest rates for different localities, the banks are practically put on the same credit basis by the provision which makes them all responsible for each other's obligations. There are states in which climatic conditions make crops more uncertain than in other states, and interest rates are higher there, partly on that account and partly because the communities are new, local capital is relatively scarce, and the population is not so well able to go through a crop failure. In these states interest rates are naturally higher than in states where crop failure is unknown and local capital is in good supply. Under this system the latter states will lend their credit to the former. Will this work out satisfactorily? It will depend upon how carefully loans are made in the new and uncertain localities. It is within the memory of men when millions of savings belonging to the Eastern states were lost in loans upon western farm lands. This system would have gone to smash then. Conditions are better now, and it is inconceivable that any portion of the country should ever again pass through such an experience as that. But the principle of making a land bank in one part of the country guarantee the loans made by a land bank in another part of the country is questionable. This feature of the plan favors too much of the guaranty of deposits. It is good to help everybody to have the benefit of all the credit to which he is entitled, but it is doubtful policy to help one with cost of risk to another.

The same comment may be made upon the provisions putting the land banks and the capital invested in land bonds upon a different basis from other banks and other capital as regards taxation. It is not good policy or fair policy to exempt anybody from taxation. This exemption is for the benefit of owners of farming lands, and no other.

Nature-Faking.
A Long Island teacher was recounting the story of Red Riding Hood. After describing the woods and the wild animals that flourish therein, she added: "Suddenly Red Riding Hood heard a great noise. THE THINKER.

Back of the heating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor
The seeker may find the thought,
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel.
The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with lusty blows,
But back of him stands the thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plow or sower,
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the brains of labor,
Which gives the work of a soul.

Back of the motor's humming,
Back of the bells that ring,
Back of the hammer's drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the eye which scans them,
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the mind which plans them,
Back of the brawn and brain.

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,
But back of them stands the schemer,
The thinker who drives them through.

Back of the job—the dreamer
Who's making the dream come true.
—Berton Briley, in the American Machinist.

WHERE'S OUR MOSIS?

Some day a great reformer or social uplifter or revivalist will start a popular movement or invent a new religion intended to restore common sense in men's dress. The present generation awaits his coming, helpless to set itself free. It lacks the moral impulse to make the honest effort. For men are born to be slaves, and only some great outside power can liberate them.—New York World.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Ladies' night will be celebrated by the Acad Club this evening.
The proposed change in the time of the last car at night on the East Oakland Street Railway Company's line has created a great deal of disturbance in East Oakland.
There is a movement on foot among the people of Berkeley to obtain a pledge from candidates to the Legislature to favor the appropriation of the funds necessary for the erection of several new university buildings.
Over $175,000 will be spent on improvements of the buildings and grounds of the old Oakland Trotting Park.
"Tartar and Money" are the set topics to be discussed at the open meeting of the Second Ward Republican Club tonight.

ACTORS' SALARIES FLEETING.

In the September American Magazine, a Broadway critic tells the truth about actors' salaries. He says:
"The actor's reputed salary is a snare and a delusion, and a false god not to be worshipped, in that it is intermittent, fleeting, evanescent. It is a will-o'-the-wisp, now here now there, but never enduring. Any experienced actor would with profound gratification agree to devote his life to stage work if guaranteed thirty weeks of employment. One of the jokes perpetrated at the expense of slackers at the beginning of the war was, 'The English actors at the Lambs Club in conference yesterday agreed to notify their government that they would enlist in the army, but only on condition that they should be guaranteed thirty weeks.'"

ELECTRICAL STORM GRIPS
BAY REGION

Thunder and Lightning Visit
Oakland and Contingent Region in Unprecedented Manifestation; Downpour Follows

First Disturbance of Similar Nature Here in Twenty-Five Years. According to Prof.
Leuschner; Havoc Wrought

Heralded by vivid flashes of lightning, the heaviest thunder storm ever experienced in the bay region broke over Oakland shortly before 11 o'clock last night, culminated and roared for an hour amid a downpour of rain and, muffled by the remains of the night among the hills of the hinterland. The last rumble of the thunder were still audible this morning as early commuters were taking their cars for the day's work.

The storm was unexpected in its advent and peculiar in its manifestations. Electrical disturbances of the kind are not unknown in Central California, but one of such noisy violence and persistent duration is not recalled here by any of the oldest residents. Electrical service of all kinds was discontinued throughout the height of the storm and the damage to lighting and telegraph service is still being repaired.

The toll of damage is as follows:
Lightning set fire to the San Francisco, Oakland Terminal car barns.
Blaze quickly extinguished.
Several transformers of the Pacific
Gas and Electric Company burned out.

Entire fire alarm and police telegraph system out of commission.
Paralyzed Oakland street car service for one hour.

TIMID ONES IN FEAR.
Considerable rain came with the lightning and thunder and across the bay the rain was a cloudburst. San Mateo felt the heaviest effect of the rain. The storm continued last night and early this morning. Crashes of thunder and lightning, neighborhood into panic, so intense was the disturbance. The rain broke just after the theaters had closed, taking the crowds by surprise and drenching many.

The fire occurred at the Elmhurst car barns. Here the lightning arced the high tension wires, starting a blaze and stopping the car service.
The blaze was quickly put under control.

In this region, where thunderstorms are practically unknown, the disturbance created widespread alarm. Dr.
A. O. Leuschner of the University of California declares that this was the first storm of the kind in the bay region for twenty-five years. Lightning crippled the service wires on the peninsula as well as on this side of the bay, plunging San Francisco into darkness.

RAIN GENERAL.
Rain was general throughout the state yesterday, shortly before the thunderstorm. Fresno experienced a severe thunderstorm yesterday morning, and a second thunderstorm occurred in the evening, stopping an

Fraternities and Sororities Are

Students Who Wait in Crowds

Many Changes Are Announced

Known Preachers to Be Heard
This Fall in Memorial Hall

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug.
28.—With hundreds of freshmen waiting to register tomorrow for the initial year of their college life, the fall semester of the university opened today with the registration of graduate students. The quad, which has been echoing only with the footsteps of tourists visiting during the summer vacation, is now with the chatter of strolling students and the buildings are awakening to their normal life.

"Rushing" among the freshmen has been in progress for a week and closes today, as tomorrow is "pledge day," when the various fraternities and sororities will lay claim to those whom they have selected as desirable members. "Rushing parties" on the campus were in full swing today.

After freshmen registration tomorrow, the undergraduates of the other classes will register on Wednesday and instruction will begin on Thursday.

ANNOUNCE FACULTY CHANGE.
Several changes in the faculty have been announced for the coming year.
Dr. Philip K. Gilman, a graduate of Stanford with the class of 1901, has been appointed clinical instructor in the medical school. He has been surgeon-in-chief in the United States hospital in Manila for a number of years, and during that period was also a professor in the medical department of the University of the Philippines.
Dr. F. Dietrich, graduate in 1914, who was an assistant in the mining department in 1913 and 1914, has been appointed lecturer to carry on part of the work of Prof. D. M. Folsom, who has been granted six months' leave of absence.

NOTED PREACHERS COMING.
Three special preachers for the Memorial church have been obtained—
Dr. Charles W. Silkey, pastor of Hyde Park Baptist church of Chicago;
Bishop Charles H. Brent, Episcopal bishop of the Philippine Islands; and Rev. Harry E. Fosdick, professor of theology in the Union Theological Seminary of New York. Fosdick will be here from May 6 to 20, 1917, and will preach the baccalaureate sermon.
Prof. Vernon L. Kellogg, the veteran entomologist, has been granted another leave of absence for six months, that he may continue his work with the American relief commission in Belgium. Dr. Frank Angell, who is still in Belgium, has been granted one more month's leave. Assistant Professor C. H. Calley has resigned to accept a full professorship in history in Tufts University. The resignation of Dr. Edmund D. Shortridge in the medical department has also been accepted.

Man in Crater

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 28.—Walter Hamilton of Ex Centro, president of the Imperial Irrigation district, narrowly escaped death yesterday
when he broke through the earth
crust near the Volcano lake levee, 25 miles south of Calexico, and fell waistdeep into a pool of boiling mud, according to word received here.

Hamilton, who, with a party of valley men, was inspecting the levee, was walking near hot mud springs when the ground gave way. Members of the party immediately dragged him to safety, but he was so severely burned about the legs that it is said skin grafting will be necessary.

Hamilton was taken to Calexico,
where physicians said his burns,
while serious, will not prove fatal unless complications develop. His wife, who is visiting here, was notified.

The Black Butte district, in which Volcano lake is situated, is said to be dotted with hot mud springs, all of which have been extremely active for some time.

Hunt Goes Merrily On;
Sleuth's Son Culprit

It's a wise father who knows his own son, even when that son is something less than 3 years old. So has decided Tom Wood, Oakland police inspector, who is at Hoyes' Springs in Sonoma county, convalescing from an illness.

Wood had a relapse two days ago when he discovered that four diamond rings belonging to Mrs.
Wood had disappeared. "I've been robbed," he wrote to his pals on the pawshop detail here.
Some crook has taken my wife's diamond rings. They are worth $1500. Look for them, will you, boys? Yours in trouble, etc."

Inspectors Charles McCarthy, Tim Flynn and W. B. Quigley got busy. They searched every pawnshop in Oakland and San Francisco. They were worried for their friend until this morning,
when they received a message
from him, it read:

"I have found the thief. His name is Charley Wood, and I am his father. He took the rings and threw them on a sheet of flypaper to see if they would stick. They did. Then he threw the flypaper, rings and all into an ash can. We found them, fortunately."

Wood made new friends through his temporary misfortune, at any rate. He became intimately acquainted with Constable James Sonoma and Sheriff Smith of Santa Rosa, having those two officials on a hunt for the thieves for forty-eight hours.

Uncle Wiggly's Adventures

Cuts up for Kids

Whether polo for women will prove more successful in the languorous climate of Honolulu than it did in San Francisco remains to be seen, but at least the new polo club will have among its fair riders the popular little woman, Miss Dorothy Doe, who sailed Saturday for the Orient with her mother, Mrs. L. L. Doe.

Miss Doe, who is a favorite in the younger set on both sides of the bay, joined the recently established club before sailing. It will be some time, however, before she reaches the Hawaiian Islands, as their itinerary takes them first to the Orient, landing them in Japan and including a tour of the strange and exotic of China, first. Perhaps, too, they will stop at Manila on the way back, and it will be a month or more before they return to San Francisco.

In the group that saw her off Saturday morning, a number of the young Piedmont friends, who dropped in last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Huntington to bid her bon voyage there, among the coterie on this side of the bay with whom she often shares the gaieties of town are Miss Dorothy Taylor, Miss Lucile Taylor and several more.

At a very quiet ceremony, performed this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the music room of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bell Huntington's Santa Cruz residence, Miss Dorothy Deming became the bride of Denning Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Sherwood (Helen Pond) who have been on a honeymoon through the southern part of the state returned in time to be present. The Deming family is very well known here, and has for a number of years spent six months or more in Piedmont, alternating their stay with another six months in Santa Cruz where they have a house on the coast overlooking the sea. A few weeks ago the wedding of Mrs. Helen Pond, their older daughter, and Warner Sherwood was solemnized there in a quiet and unostentatious manner.

A honeymoon in Alaska where Deming Wheeler has extensive interests, will fill the next three months of the young couple, and after that there is to be a brief visit in California before they go on to spend part of the winter in New York before reaching Terre Haute, the bridegroom's home.

In honor of Miss Julia McKibben, whose wedding to Vernon Russell Burdell is set for next Saturday in Berkeley, Miss Margaret Wittor will give a bridge tea tomorrow afternoon, inviting a coterie of intimate friends for her guests. Miss Wittor is to be one of the two bridesmaids at the wedding, the other being Miss Mary McKibben. Mrs. Warren McKibben as matron of honor and Miss Margaret Taylor of Piedmont as maid of honor will be her other attendants.

In the picturesque music room of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fickensher, with her summer of yellow sunflowers in the background, Mrs. Charles Fickensher, the well-known pianist, who has been a musical elite around the bay at an interesting reception yesterday afternoon there, his honor, Fickensher, was the first of a series of monthly affairs the Fickenshers are planning to give this winter.

Several accomplished artists participated in a program that gave the afternoon character, among them Miss Karen of Berlin, Mrs. Fickensher in a group of charming songs, and Mr. Fickensher, who played the piano accompaniment to several curious works in verse written by Mr. Keeler. These recitations, to a musical setting have been given the rather misleading name of "melodrama," which, with an "e" on the end, has been abused into meaning any blood and thunder play.

Afterward tea was served in these rooms with French windows open, looking out upon a garden of tall bamboo and ferns, by a group including Miss Meroline Keeler, Miss Edith Widdard, Miss Ruth Randall and Miss Genevieve Young of Honolulu.

The poet leaves on October 1 to be gone for some time on another lecture tour, and he has met with unusual success on the platform, despite his unworldly, retiring manner. During the past five years that he has been away he has lived broad a large part of the time, leaving his young daughter with her grandmother in Berkeley.

Miss Constance Estcourt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Estcourt of London, has left for Carson City, where she will be the house guest of Judge and Mrs. P. A. McCarran until her marriage tomorrow to Paul Brel, an English civil engineer to whom she has been engaged for several years. Judge McCarran will perform the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and afterward the bride and groom will leave for Hawthorne, where they will make their home for the time being.

For the past four years Miss Estcourt and her family lived in San Francisco, moving recently to Carson City, where she is a concert pianist of far more than ordinary ability, and has been one of the main attractions of the city's musical life. Her wedding is the result of a romance dating back to the time when she and her fiancé were together at the University of London. Since then her fiancé's professional position called him to South America, and it was there where his father is one of the faculty of the University of California.

Miss Lucy Pierce is spending the week-end at the residence of the house guest of Lieutenant and Mrs. Henry C. Davis. On her return she will be a joint hostess with her husband for the evening next Friday afternoon at their studio in San Francisco.

Several days before the date set for their wedding, Miss Anna Marie Bowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bowden of this city, and Arthur W. Hazard, were quietly married last Saturday morning by the Rev. Elbert R. Dille in the presence of Berkeley's Methodist church, where they are now spending their honeymoon in Santa Cruz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazard are both graduates of the University of California, recent classes. The bride was a member of the 15 class and of the Sigma Kappa chapter, while the groom, who completed his course a year earlier, was affiliated with the Delta Omicron club. He is the son of Mrs. Hannah Hazard of Whittier, Los Angeles.

As a compliment to his granddaughter, Miss Isabelle Carman, who returns in the middle of September to the convent of the Sacred Heart at Menlo, a beautifully appointed luncheon was given last Saturday by Mr. F. Carman at his home in Bellevue avenue. Eleven young girls enjoyed this affair.

The two most elaborate events in society across the bay this past week-end were the tea dance at which Miss Alice Keeler made a beautiful debut, and the brilliant ball dedicating the superb Italian villa of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Poole just completed at Menlo Park.

Miss Keeler's debut was voted one of the happiest in the records of debutante balls in Marin county, from the unusually charming decorations to the informal party and dance with which the young people wound up the day. From both sides of the bay quantities of rare lovely flowers had been sent by hosts of friends and from others too remote to extend their good wishes personally there were endless telegrams and letters.

During the afternoon a number of the girls of the debutante's age who assisted the group of matrons at the tea tables, the coterie including Miss Flora Miller, Miss Ethel Alley, Miss Miriam Beaver and several others.

The dancing party that drew a hundred or more down the peninsula was a most successful affair, many of the guests arriving until midnight, and many not leaving until morning; for the two orchestras played the dark hours through. This new place is one of the most perfect, for entertaining that has been recently put up, as it is built around a spacious court that permits most graceful decorative schemes to be put into execution. In this court the supper was served Saturday night.

The ball was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. William Crocker, Miss Helen Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Christian de Gilmoe, Mr. and Mrs. Robin Hayne, Mr. and Mrs. George Nickel and many others of the peninsula set.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keeney left Santa Barbara today to motor up the coast with the Talbot Walkers. They have been guests for many weeks at Monocito at Mrs. William Griffith Henshaw's magnificent place, and have been conspicuous in the gaieties of Santa Barbara during much of the summer.

Del Monte has been shrouded in depression since the untimely death of Orrin Wilson after a fall from his pony in a polo game of last week, and there has been little of the customary week-end liveliness there. Today the body of the unfortunate young player will be shipped east and with it will go, among one or two of his relatives, Mrs. Nellie Pittcock, who has been in the hospital for some time, and who is expected to have become his bride.

Mrs. Potter is a sister of Mrs. Evelyn McCormick, well known as a hostess, and of the dancing Mrs. Ellis Parfitt.

Turlock Arranges to Hold Carnival

TURLOCK, Aug. 28.—Wednesday, September 6, will be observed here as Turlock Melon Day. This date was decided upon at a meeting of the Turlock Booster Club last night. A committee composed of G. S. Keith, A. A. Caldwell and E. A. Sweet reported that $1000 had been raised to defray the cost of the celebration.

The program of amusements is in the hands of a committee consisting of J. V. Baker, C. V. Lundahl and Carl Phillips, and their report will be ready for announcement in a few days. An effort is being made to secure an aviation feature. In addition to the committee is planning a street parade, melon feast, motorcycle and bicycle races and other outdoor sports for the day-time, while the evening program will probably include open-air motion pictures, street dancing and fireworks. There will be hand music during the day and a troupe of Hawaiian musicians will be engaged for the evening.

CONFESSIONS OF ROXANE

By FRANCES WALTER.

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

I spent the afternoon trying to estimate what sum of money would be required to pay what I owed. In all my life money had never worried me. In my mother's home I always had plenty to wear and finances were seldom discussed. When I went to school there were always charge accounts which obviated the necessity of paying cash, and my mother supplied me with all my spending money. After my marriage it was much the same, with Arthur in my mother's place.

It was he who paid the bills.

The result was that I was as helpless as a baby when suddenly confronted with the problem of settling my accounts. Miss Thompson told me that my husband was an extravagant one and that the hotel expenses were, indeed, there was but one way to find out and that was to ask the hotel manager.

Mr. Beck, the clerk, referred me to the cashier, and the cashier, in turn, referred me to Mr. Billings, the manager.

"Why don't you ask your husband," he exclaimed when I put the question to him. "Everything is settled."

I was agitated. "Who do you mean?" I asked.

"All paid," he declared. "Mr. Pembroke has settled for everything."

"Mr. Pembroke?" I began and stopped.

The manager looked at me curiously.

"Of course," he said. "Mr. Pembroke left his bill paid for two months in advance and also deposited $1000 with me for you to draw against. Didn't Mr. Beck give you a memorandum of the arrangement?"

"No," I replied. "I knew nothing of it."

"Inexcusable negligence," exclaimed Mr. Billings. "I told him to send you a memorandum at once."

"Did not receive it," I said.

"But, in any event, I have the thousand dollars," Mrs. Pembroke said. "It is yours whenever you wish to draw it. I have not received your bill, but I have been paid for nearly another month, and if you choose to stay six months longer nothing will be said about another bill. Mr. Pembroke will settle that."

"Has he sent you a remittance recently?" I inquired. It was as near as I could come to asking if he had received any word from my husband.

"No, the deposit was made when he left. A remittance was made when he left. I thanked him as well as I could and went back to my room. Was ever woman surrounded by more puzzling circumstances than I am? At my rate I had sufficient funds to pay Miss Regnier and in a short time Miss Thompson was on her way to wipe out the debt I breathed a sigh of relief. She departed on the errand. It was as if a heavy and galling load was lifted from my shoulders.

My husband's bill was paid there remained a substantial sum on deposit with Mr. Billings. I resolved to draw as much as I might need, but I took my departure for my old home. I had no qualms of conscience about using Arthur's money. Had I had money of my own readily at hand, I might still have used my husband's, although I am not quite sure what I would have done in that event. Certain it was that Arthur's obligation to society had not been diminished by his unexpected departure and protracted absence. If anything, the obligation had been increased by just so much.

But these thoughts did not enter my mind at the time. No nice distinctions occurred to me. I prepared to draw the money with no other thought than that it was mine, and when Miss Thompson returned from her trip to Miss Regnier's bank, I sent her to the manager for two hundred dollars more.

"Take it and buy my tickets," I told her. "While you are gone I shall pack my trunk. My husband's bill will be on my way to my mother's home."

"And I," said Miss Thompson with a wan smile, "shall be seeking another patient. In a few days or a few hours I shall have one, but she will be different from you. It will be a long time before I find another sick little girl like you."

My heart warmed to her.

"Come with me," I urged. "Our home is big and empty for both of us, and we shall try to forget all the unpleasant things of the past."

"No, my duty lies here. I shall go ahead with my work."

When she was gone I set about my task of packing. But I found it harder to accomplish than I had anticipated. I dressed and redressed my trunk many times. I recalled that I had bought this one at her suggestion, or that I had loved that one because she admired it so much. I remembered that I had bought this one at her suggestion, or that I had loved that one because she admired it so much. I remembered that I had bought this one at her suggestion, or that I had loved that one because she admired it so much.

A few hours more and I should be cleared of my mother's debt. I loved her now! It seemed I never had really known what it was to have a mother until this time.

Uncle Wiggly's Adventures

(By HOWARD R. GARIS.)

"Well, is everything all right?" called Uncle Wiggly Longears, the rabbit gentleman, as he hopped out of bed in his hollow stump farm house one morning, and called up the stairs to Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"All right? What do you mean?" she asked. "Is the chimney on fire, or hasn't the milkman been here yet?"

"Neither one," laughed Uncle Wiggly. "Only it's time to get up."

"Oh, my goodness me, saffron alive and some huckleberry ice cream!" cried the muskrat lady. "I must have slept too late. You are up before I, and breakfast isn't ready. Oh, dear!"

"Now, don't worry," said Uncle Wiggly, kindly. "There is no hurry. I got up a bit early, as we are going to the seashore today for our vacation. I want to see the trunk and see what I have packed."

"I'll get right up," Nurse Jane said, and she did, hopping out of bed in such a hurry that her tail caught on the edge of the bureau and she pitched it—plunged her tail, I mean.

As soon as breakfast was over Uncle Wiggly began packing the trunk that he and Nurse Jane were to take with them to the shore. Uncle Wiggly had a pair of white trousers in his trunk, as well as a pair of white shirts, and Nurse Jane had some white skirts and other things such as muskrat ladies always wear at the beach.

"Well, while we are waiting for the train," said Uncle Wiggly, "I will just take a walk over my farm to see that it will all be right. I'm away. Grandfather Goosey Gander is going to look after it for me—pull up the weeds, gather the carrots and cabbage and see that no bad crows eat all my corn."

HOPPED OVER HIS FARM.

So the bunny hopped over his farm while Nurse Jane stood with arms crossed and the trunk until the bunny gentleman should come back to take the trunk.

Uncle Wiggly had not gone very far before he came to a place where there was a scarecrow in his field. "This scarecrow was a man stood with arms crossed and a real man, but some old clothes of the bunny's filled out to look like a real man. And when the crows saw him they were afraid, and would not fly down to pull up the corn. The corn was pretty well grown now, and there was little use for the scarecrow. But still he stood in the field, stiff and straight like a soldier."

Something fluttered near the scarecrow. At first Uncle Wiggly thought it was the stuffed hat of the muskrat lady. But the bunny heard the flapping of wings and then a voice cried:

"Oh, dear! I'm lost! I'll never get loose unless some one helps me. Oh, dear! And there is no help around here."

"Yes, there is!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggly. "I'll help you. I don't know who you are, but I know you won't harm me, for all my bad friends have turned good and I tell you who I am. I'm the big fish hawk," was the answer. "I flew up from the ocean beach today to visit my friend the eagle, who lives around here. But when he saw me I stopped to rest on this man's shoulder, but he caught me fast and won't let me go."

"Ha! That isn't a man, that's a scarecrow," said the rabbit gentleman. "I put him there myself. But he is only a scarecrow. He can't harm you. I see what the trouble is. Your sharp claws are caught in the ragged coat. I'll soon set you free."

FREES FISH HAWK.

Then Uncle Wiggly cut away ragged pieces of the scarecrow's coat from the fish hawk's claws and the hawk could fly away to the ocean again. But before he left, he said:

"Uncle Wiggly, you were very kind to me. If I can ever do you a favor I shall only be too happy."

"Pray do not mention it," spoke the bunny with no other reply.

"I'll make a low bow and hopped on over his farm, while the fish hawk flew back toward the sandy shore of the ocean."

Soon the bunny uncle turned back to his hollow stump farm house.

"It is about time," said Nurse Jane and I started for the station," he said. "It will be some little while to put all those trunks in the baggage car."

Uncle Wiggly called to Nurse Jane walking up and down the porch, her tail tied in two bow knots so she would not step on it.

"Oh, Wiggly!" she cried, using his pet name. "You are very late."

"But we still have plenty of time," he said. "I'll tell you. I don't know who you are, but I know you won't harm me, for all my bad friends have turned good and I tell you who I am. I'm the big fish hawk," was the answer. "I flew up from the ocean beach today to visit my friend the eagle, who lives around here. Soon the bunny uncle turned back to his hollow stump farm house.

"It is about time," said Nurse Jane and I started for the station," he said. "It will be some little while to put all those trunks in the baggage car."

Uncle Wiggly called to Nurse Jane walking up and down the porch, her tail tied in two bow knots so she would not step on it.

"Oh, Wiggly!" she cried, using his pet name. "You are very late."

"But we still have plenty of time," he said. "I'll tell you. I don't know who you are, but I know you won't harm me, for all my bad friends have turned good and I tell you who I am. I'm the big fish hawk," was the answer. "I flew up from the ocean beach today to visit my friend the eagle, who lives around here. But when he saw me I stopped to rest on this man's shoulder, but he caught me fast and won't let me go."

"Ha! That isn't a man, that's a scarecrow," said the rabbit gentleman. "I put him there myself. But he is only a scarecrow. He can't harm you. I see what the trouble is. Your sharp claws are caught in the ragged coat. I'll soon set you free."

WAR FIRES MAY BURN IN SO. AMERICA

Analysis of Diplomacy Hints at Possible Intercine Strife in Zone of Lower Continent;
Border Troubles Threatened

Chile-Argentina Row Might Put Many Nations Into Field in Clash for Territory and Control of Wealth, Says Expert

Buenos Aires, Aug. 28.—South America's republics today are sitting over just such another powder magazine as the one which exploded two years ago in Europe. In many ways the situation recalls the situation existing in Europe just a few years before the outbreak of the present struggle. The recent hint of war between Venezuela and Peru and Colombia and Ecuador brought South America to sharp attention. They might easily do what the Balkan mix-up did to Europe.

There is the same feeling that a widespread clash cannot be prevented, the same conflict of interest, same warnings, same preparations, same groaning under the weight of these preparations and the same undercurrent of international ill-feeling.

If when a war comes, the two principal belligerents probably will be Argentina and Chile.

Not a country in South America lacks a boundary dispute with some other country. Each is a little Alsace-Lorraine.

Chile and Argentina had a nasty dispute of the kind in 1928. It reached the point of mutual mobilization. England interfered and arbitrated. Argentina got a large area of land in southern Patagonia, which, Chile claimed, should have gone to the latter. This has rankled ever since.

Chile is very poor. If she could take by force of arms that land, she might get another portion as indemnity. It would give her all of South America along her present eastern boundary.

Peru is an inland country with an ambition for a "window" on the Pacific.

The two provinces Chile took from Peru are bounded on the west by the Pacific and on the east by Bolivia. On their coast are the ports of Tacna and Arica. These would constitute a "double window" if Bolivia could get them.

Chile probably would turn them over to the Bolivians to defend from Peru.

Peru would be too strong for Bolivia, but Ecuador and Colombia would help give Peru a trouncing to keep the latter from trying to enforce claim on parts of the Amazon to rubber country, concerning which Sir Roger Casement made a report a few years ago.

Paraguay is a small country with a certain territory in northern Peru, and surely would think the time favorable for grabbing it.

This would be the cue for Peru's friend, Venezuela, to invade Colombia and secure a slice of territory she covets.

North of Argentina is Paraguay. The Paraguayans have lost territory to Argentina and are wild to recover it. Many South Americans believe Paraguay could count on military support from Brazil.

Sympathizers Suffer Same Fate as Friend

HAMMONTON, Aug. 28.—When Mrs. David Lutnow of this place fell from the rear porch of her home down an embankment, sustaining minor injuries, she did not dream that her mishap would lead to other casualties.

Put when Mrs. Robert Millar and Mrs. David McDonald called to sympathize with her over the fracture of three ribs, they counted worse complications.

The visitors, on going to the porch to view the scene of the accident to their neighbor, ventured too near the edge, with the result that Mrs. McDonald lost her balance and went the way of Mrs. Lutnow.

Mrs. Millar, in attempting to catch Mrs. McDonald, also lost her balance and sustained the more serious injury of three ribs, a shaking-up that forced her into the hospital.

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL

It Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You May Lose a Day's Work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need the dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't love a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tonic tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.—Advertisement.

Romance Through the Shop

"Women—the well-dressed ones—know what they want these days," reflected the corsair, looking over the glass case past the pink satin covered figure-dresses that sculptors of ancient Greece would scarcely have faced without blushing.

They know what they want. The fat ones want to look plump and flat. The thin ones would be plump. They know the corset has a lot to do with it—just what lines it has and how it fits her.

"Yes," ventured her listener, waiting to be educated. "But how about the other women?"

Evidently the others bought by the price and not the effect, for the corsair insisted upon clothing her persons in one dollar and a half and three dollar corsets as a rule were oblivious to the art, science and skill that might be lost in a mere struggle for a price.

But regardless of corsets, or plus there are a few new trills this season that appear to be new. They are, however, only that. Trills such as these advertised in THE TRIBUNE.

Some quaint spirit—or a spirit interested in the quaint—and at the same time determined to equip a spare sleeping room in a new summer—should take in the charms of the copies of an old English "cottage" set that have just been evolved by the furniture experts.

A set of this type at Breuners showed details of a most naive kind, from the little pink and blue nosegays painted on the many surfaces to the little pink and blue flowers hanging from the pendant mirror.

The bed was very low and rounded at the head and footboards, with massive brass head and foot rails. A small chifforon was also low with a separate mirror flat on the wall above. Candles, of course, should be posted on the brass side rails.

Such quaintness in a room, with pictures and curtains and rugs to carry out its sentiment, should please any guest looking for the subtle simplicities.

As though lingerie de luxe were not fascinating enough already, little sachet bags of satin, painted with pinks and blues and filled with alluring scents, are attached to many of the latest brasseries. These are fastened by tiny ribbons to the front of the piece, so that a faint whiff of perfume will drift through the diaphanous blouse that will probably be worn above it. Proving that fewer and fewer feminine persons rely on mere charm alone!

Of these new brasseries, by the way, some of those intended for evening wear, are constructed like camisoles, with but triple rows of baby ribbon to hold them on over the shoulders and a foundation of soft net to make them snugly. Another new model, in Manheim and Mazor's, was evolved from a simple, flesh-toned French silk, with the section forming the skirt made of heavy lace of a Chiny pattern, with scalloped reaching up into the color. This was suitable for other than the amply matron and could be drawn into fullness by ribbon running through the narrow lace edging around the neck. The new corsets these are worn over are, as a rule, shorter of hip and slightly more curved in at the waist, though this does not apply to a surgical corset carried at this shop for the benefit of persons whose interiors need special—and very scientific—support—support that they haven't had since humanity was hounded into walking upright.

The feminine soul who goes about embroidering thinness for brides-elects or merely to keep herself sane while at informal afternoon should be enchanted to hear of creations that may be speedily covered with hand-wrought designs without testing her patience, skill or eyesight. Taft & Penney's art needlework department is exhibiting stamped French "rose" sets of boudoir pillows, laundry bags and other gay frivolities that are worked with three simple stitches for each small rose leaf and a "lazy" zigzag stitch to connect them. These are on crash and of novel pattern.

A demonstrator for this new line of needlework designs is there all this week, explaining the idea and the manner of making the stitches used for these and for various sets of nightdresses and fetching Dutch boudoir caps to match. These women have used principally a combination of fine French work and open-work fagoting to carry out the idea of "flower" sets. There is a "violet" set with worked in delicate lavender, a sweet pea set and other garden flower ideas are made use of; also the butterfly flounces and decorative wings carried on the one cap and gown that goes with it.

For the bride there is an especially successfully designed gown with lilac-of-the-valley in scrolls through the lines of open stitching. Such is lingerie!

Three rows of narrow fluffy black pium, separated by four-inch intervals, ran around the lower part of an exceptionally smart black seal plush coat at the Tanager and gave it a chic, especially when it flared open enough to reveal a lining of apricot satin with varicolored bouquets scattered over its surface. This coat hung straight from the shoulders and from under an ample collar of possum.

More of a simple street coat was a green velvet, with a wide, straight, shawl collar, and full enough for great moderate wraps. It, too, had a great collar of possum, but there was no touch of fur on the plain cuffs, which relied upon many rows of stitching for decoration. With this model the rather full sleeves were in a long slender and another unusual detail consisted of the extension of the circular back into tabs that ran up under the arms toward the front, where they were stopped by two large black buttons.

Port parents looking for new costumes for future presidents in their midst might be more than casually attracted by the novelty suits for youngsters from two to the great age of six years that have arrived at Moneysworth. Such of these small suits are called "Buddy Toppers" partially because of the small "topper" that replace buttonholes with their own, and partially because of the extra "buddy" of white possum and Eton coat that roll over at the neck to complete the little "buddy" look.

There are military pockets on some of these and ample patch pockets on all of them below the belt, while under the collar, a just finishing touch for the irresistible child.

Few people go in for those weird bits of patterned and bird embroidered "dolls" that once were viewed by so many of our Americans as the only fitting finishing touch for their babies. Education has led up to tapestry and creation runners in most of the rooms of 1916, evolved past the stone ages, and to finish the lines of these runners and lace shawls and other creations of the kind are not always easily found, but they are to be had at Moneysworth.

With the fringes and tassels either of tinsel or of dull silk to match. These silken fringes are often desirable and adding to the little "buddy" look, sometimes they are set off by little all-

PACIFIC MAIL SERVICE RESUMED

Crowds Along the Waterfront
Cheer as Battleship Escorts
Liner Ecuador.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—With the battleship Oregon escorting her through the Golden Gate to wish her bon voyage on the part of the federal government, the new Pacific Mail liner Ecuador, carrying 256 passengers and 5000 tons of cargo, set sail yesterday for the Orient as the forerunner of a fleet that will restore the Stars and Stripes to the Pacific. Shouting crowds along the docks, the blowing of whistles and the rhythmic music of bands made the occasion a gala one along the waterfront.

From the prow of the vessel fluttered the American Jack of blue field and white stars, the rising sun flag of Japan hung on the foremast and the Stars and Stripes floated proudly from the stern post. The ship was manned with a white crew and complied with the regulations of the new seaman's act governing ships of American register.

SHIP'S PERSONNEL.
The officers of the Ecuador, recruited from the old Pacific Mail service, are: A. W. Nelson, commander; George Cregeen, first officer; R. S. Paul, chief engineer; A. E. Nowlan, purser; B. A. Stanton, freight clerk; C. D. Kinaley, surgeon; F. W. Davidson, chief steward; C. M. Klass, second steward; E. V. Baldwin and B. Bann Taylor, wireless operators.

The appearance of the Ecuador proceeding down the harbor was the signal for salutes from hundreds of bay and army guns. Accompanied by the gunboat and Piedmont stopped their headway to let her pass, while the resumption of merchant marine service under the American flag.

A convoy of the tugs Arab, Fearless, Pilot and Argonaut accompanied the Ecuador past the wharves to the battleship Oregon, which was lying off Alcatraz ready to start.

PLEASE SEND OFF.
The send-off is wonderful," said Joseph R. Grace, president of W. R. Grace & Co., the owners of the new line. "In New York they couldn't begin to handle a reception like this to a more commercial venture. It shows that San Francisco is vitally interested in the resumption of the Oriental trade."

"It is the intention of the new Pacific Mail to extend its service as soon as it sees its way clear to do so. We expect to have the Venezuela ready for sailing on October 21. The Ecuador will be ready for its second sailing from San Francisco around November 19, and will be followed by the Colombia. If the company can obtain a mail subsidy from the federal government new and larger vessels of the Atlantic liner type will be built for this run."

Interiors are also features of this sale together with feather pillows of what is called "popular size."

The odd features of the sale consisted of the semi-Norfolk checked given by panel back that acquired strips of belt at the sides to fasten in front.

Tomorrow is the last day of an opportunity offered by Jackson Furniture Store to invest in paid blankets for the approaching winter; blankets crossed off in blue or tan or gray or pink, and of most ample width. Silkline comforters of many colors, fluffy with cotton

American River to Be Combed for Gold

AUBURN, Aug. 28.—The Guggenheims, having made contracts with the great majority of the miners on the north fork of the American river between Auburn and Colfax, are about to prospect the river for gold.

The prospecting will be done with a huge drill. It is of the tractor type, being designed to travel on its own power over the river bed and be let down the canyon side by means of a drum and cable. The "drill" trail will be followed.

If the prospecting shows pay dirt, dredging will be begun next year.

500,000 BATHE INTERNALLY

The marvelous growth of Internal Bathing since the advent of "J. B. L. Cascade" is accounted for not only by the enthusiastic praise of its users to others, but also by physicians insisting more and more that the Lower Intestine must be kept free from waste to insure perfect health and efficiency.

Mary L. J. Walker, M. L. D., Olean, N. Y., writes:

"I must tell you of a case of Constipation lasting for twenty years, that was cured by your Cascade treatment."

"The physician in charge said the patient had a tumor lying between the stomach and intestines. The patient being 62 years old, he claimed no help could be given except the knife; but finding the intestines in a very bad state, I advised the 'J. B. L. Cascade,' which resulted in a complete recovery. When I took the case she was taking a laxative three times a day, and had been for three weeks; couldn't get along without it—she never takes any laxative."

Navy Needs 175,000 Men, Says Officer

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 28.—"In the event of war, the United States Navy would need at once 175,000 trained men," was the statement made by Rear-Admiral William F. Fullam, commander-in-chief of the Pacific reserve fleet, in an address delivered here on board the cruiser South Dakota to the civilian volunteers who are taking a training course on this vessel.

The admiral expressed surprise that the people on the west coast took so little interest in the unprotected state of their coast line, and declared that it was time they awoke to the necessity for adequate preparedness.

Prisoners May Have Bay Swimming Pool

SAN QUENTIN, Aug. 28.—Prisoners at San Quentin prison will soon be allowed to take a dip in San Francisco bay, if the plans of Warden James A. Johnston are adopted. Warden Johnston urged the State Board of Prison Directors to provide funds for the construction of a wide beach projecting into the bay. If this plan is followed, the prisoners will be able to enjoy surf bathing.

The board yesterday ordered the installation of hydro-therapeutic baths for the benefit of prisoners afflicted with nervous disorders.

The board also paroled fifteen prisoners, denied the application of twenty-five and continued the application of thirty-two more. No life sentences or women were granted paroles, although fifteen "lifers" made application.
